AN EYEWITNESS STORY OF FURY IN RED-NAZI WAR

Tells of Fierce Drive by German Army.

BY ALVIN J. STEINKOPF.

LWOW, July 4 (AP).—Uncounted hundreds of Russian tanks smashed by the German army in this now shattered frontier area lie disabled in southern Poland and the western Ukraine.

I saw them on an automobile tour of the southern front as a guest of the German high command.

[The Germans announced yesterday that 20,000 Russian troops had surrendered at Minsk and that panzer brigades were edging up to Russia's Stalin line. The Russians claimed they had smashed a German drive to cross the historic Berezina river. Details on page 4.]

4,000 Prisoners at Work.

I saw 4,000 Russian prisoners in one vast camp in conquered territory. The Germans were putting them to work expanding the camp. Preparations were being made in this one place alone to accommodate 50,000 Russians.

But many more than 50,000 must be cared for, German officers said.

Along every highway lie battered tanks, so many one loses track when trying to count them.

Other hundreds are in the woods on either side of roads.

Russian cannon, upset or smashed, are seen everywhere. Scores of Russian tractors cluttered the streets of towns and ditches along the highways.

Motor Columns Move East.

All southern Poland hums with the sound of motors. On the highways are German motor columns moving eastward endlessly. In the air the luftwaffe [air force] streaks eastward like a flock of hawks.

In a high command car, I traveled 660 miles along the Polish front and talked with hundreds of soldiers, but I encountered only a few who had seen Russian planes.

There had been some Russian planes but they seemed to have little effect on the German drive eastward.

Anti-aircraft gunners ride in columns or are stationed at strategic points in this region but they have had comparatively little to do.

Reds Rushed Off Feet.

Everywhere the story seems to be the same.

Germans, Russian prisoners, and civilians declared the German army struck with such ferocity that the Russians were completely rushed off their feet.

They were bombed out of half finished fortifications, I was told. They retreated, abandoning equipment worth millions of dollars.

Still, the flight was not fast enough to prevent the capture of thousands of prisoners.

Many of the prisoners said they belonged to the Russian labor service, which was given arms and rushed into battle.

There were also a good sized number of professional Russian soldiers and high officers, including at least one general, to whom I talked. He was a small, well groomed but unshaven man who said his name was Gen. Richter.

"Blind" in Military Sense.

When asked why he had been captured, Richter replied:

"Because I was blind—I mean, of course, 'blind' in the military sense.

"I was in command of a tank division, but had inadequate air reconnaissance to inform me about the disposition of German troops. So when I heard from runners that numbers of my tanks were in trouble I went forward with my own tank.

"Suddenly something hit us and the next thing I knew my tank upset. I scrambled out to face German soldiers."

While hundreds of Russian tanks were destroyed in this region the Germans said they were accounted for largely by infantry and specialist anti-tank troops. One officer told how a 92 ton Russian tank was disabled by German infantrymen who crawled up and tossed a hand grenade into the muzzle of one of its bristling cannon.

Russia Raises Taxes to Pay for War; Most Go Up100%

MOSCOW, July 4 (AP).—The supreme soviet today decreed wartime increases in income and agricultural taxes, putting up most categories 100 per cent. The decree provided increases in income tax of 50 per cent for salaries of 300 to 500 rubles monthly and 100 per cent for higher brackets. The agricultural tax was increased 100 per cent.

CALLING AMERICA

WOMEN TO SPEND 6TH LONELY DAY FOR 1935 KILLING

Two middle aged women convicted of murder will spend tomorrow in solitary confinement at the state reformatory for women at Dwight. They are Mrs. Blanche Dunkel and Mrs. Evelyn Smith, who were sentenced in August, 1935, to 180 years at hard labor for the murder of Mrs. Dunkel's son-in-law, Ervin Lang.

Mrs. Dunkel [top] and Mrs. Smith.

Tomorrow is the sixth anniversary of Lang's death. In passing sentence Judge Cornelius J. Harrington decreed that the women should spend each anniversary of the murder in solitude.

Mrs. Smith, who is 52 years old, was convicted of killing Lang, 28 years old, a grocery clerk, as a "favor" to her friend, Mrs. Dunkel, now 50, who was jealously enamored of her son-in-law. Her daughter died nine months before the murder of the young husband. Mrs. Smith strangled Lang, after plying him with liquor, and then dismembered his body.

Deeds, Not Talk, London Tells F. D. R. as Wavell Urges AEF

No British Cheers

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 5 [Saturday].—"We want deeds. The time for words has passed," says The Daily Sketch this morning in commenting on President Roosevelt's Fourth of July speech.

Under the heading, "Truth for America," the editorial states, "If America allows her partner in the maintenance of democracy to be overcome, her fate is certain. She can avert that fate by action here and now."

After expressing gratitude to Americans already fighting here on behalf of Britain, the editorial continues: "But we want her whole might. We want not only her man power and the effect of her utmost industrial production, but also the immense moral effect which would be produced by her full and frank entry into the war on our side."

Boast of British Fighting.

"We here have fought; we have not contented ourselves with phrases," The Sketch proclaims.

The labor organ, the Daily Herald, urges a united Anglo-American-Russian front, and links the names of Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, and Russian Premier Josef Stalin as "three great figures leading mankind in the struggle to defend human freedom."

The conservative Daily Telegraph takes the British Broadcasting corporation to task for stating earlier in the week that Roosevelt was going to broadcast to the British people.

Admonitions Held Needless.

"The President's message was addressed to his own people and not to this country, as the BBC erroneously announced," says the Telegraph. But the admonitions in Roosevelt's address, the editorial continues, "were not greatly needed here. We were too long in awaking to the realities, but we have learned in blood and tears what the American, with his love of freedom, is now learning."

The Tribune correspondent listened to a broadcast of President Roosevelt's speech in a hotel lobby which was crowded with people who expected him to announce American convoying or some other drastic step toward a closer alliance with Britain. When the speech was finished there was no applause and the listeners walked out silently or with remarks of disappointment.

Must Invade Europe

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

CAIRO, Egypt, July 4.—Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, who is to relinquish his post as commander in chief of the British forces in the middle east and go to India, today discussed the war and its possible course. The most interesting of Wavell's opinions of the future, from an American viewpoint, follow:

Whatever happens in eastern Europe, where the Germans and Russians are battling, the final issue of the war will be decided in the west, as it was in the World war, and in the end it will be a battle of man power.

Limit to British Man Power.

If the war continues long enough American man power will be needed to win the conflict. American planes, tanks, and guns alone will not be enough. There is a limit to Britain's own man power.

Germany can be beaten eventually by invasion of her soil after she has been hammered sufficiently from the air.

When and where American troops should eventually be employed are matters to be determined by events.

The question of "all out" American participation in the war was launched with this query: "Do you hold with the views that only tools are necessary to win the war?"

"No," Wavell replied. "Undoubtedly we will need man power if the war continues long enough, which I have no doubt it will. England must remain secure [meaning England cannot risk weakening its home forces for fear of an attempt at invasion. It will be a battle of man power in the end."

Shakes His Head.

"Can you win the war without America's full scale participation?"

Wavell shook his head and added: "We'll have to have airplanes, tanks, munitions transport, and finally men."

"When?"

"The sooner the better," the general replied.

"Do you think we [Americans] have time," Wavell was asked, "to prepare the necessary forces for invasion and to bring our munitions production up to the level required for lasting victory before Germany can make effective what loot she can get from Russia?"

"Yes, I believe there is time," the general said.

F.D.R. FEARS FOR FREEDOM IN U. S. IF LOST ABROAD

Pledges Defense of Western World.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 4.—American policy is directed toward defense of this hemisphere and freedom of the seas, President Roosevelt said today in a world-wide broadcast observing the 165th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Mr. Roosevelt criticized the noninterventionist argument that the United States is safe from attack, asserting it is "almost simple minded" for us "to wave the flag, to reassert our belief in the cause of freedom—and to let it go at that."

"And so it is," he said, "that when we repeat the great pledge to our country and to our flag, it must be our deep conviction that we pledge as well our work, our will, and, if it be necessary, our very lives."

Surrounded by Royalty.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke from his private room in the new Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial library, which was built with funds subscribed by his friends and is maintained at government expense. Royalty and relatives surrounded him as he spoke.

The President said the United States cannot save freedom if its neighbor nations have lost their freedom. He declared the nation needs not only unity but speed, efficiency, toil, and an end of what he described as backbiting and sabotage "which runs far deeper than the blowing up of munitions plants."

Mr. Roosevelt asserted the fundamentals of 1776 are being struck down abroad and threatened here by "several new practices of tyranny." He said it is "childlike fantasy" to believe that "the rule of force can defeat human freedom in all the other parts of the world and allow it to survive in the United States alone."

Altho the message was broadcast to the English-speaking peoples of the world by short wave and translated for rebroadcast to other nations, it appeared to be intended mostly for home consumption.

Fails to Mention Britain.

The British press had publicized the speech widely as a message to the British people. Mr. Roosevelt, however, did not mention Britain, Russia, or their allies.

The broadcast, which began at 4 p. m. [Chicago time], was then switched to Estes Park, Colo., where Harlan Fiske Stone, the new chief justice of the United States, recited the pledge of allegiance to the flag, joined by people thruout the country.

The program was a national unity event conceived by the Committee to Defend America, foremost interventionist organization, and was sponsored and staged by the office of Civilian Defense, headed by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York City.

Drives Car to Library.

The President drove his car to the library with his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt at his side. Crown Princess Martha of Norway and her three children, Prince Harald, and Princesses Ragnhild and Astrid, sat in the back seat. During the broadcast the crown princess sat on a sofa beside Alice Huntington, a friend of the family, and the prince.

The President's wife stood in the back of the room and his mother and Mrs. James Roosevelt, his daughter-in-law, sat along the side. Others present were the lady in waiting to the crown princess, the royal chamberlain, and Frederick A. Delano, the President's uncle.

COMMUNISTS ASK ALLIANCE OF U. S., BRITAIN, RUSSIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 4.—A pact of alliance linking the United States, Britain, and Russia "on a basis of mutual aid" was urged today in a manifesto issued by the communist party of Great Britain. The document says, "Build up the might of a common front of British, American, and soviet peoples in unity with all the peoples all over the world for a common victory over fascism."

Marshall Tells of Training in Beach Landing

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 4.—Congressional fears that the Roosevelt administration is planning to send an expeditionary force to Europe, Africa, or Asia were increased today by further details in the report of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, requesting authority to retain draftees, National Guardsmen, and reservists in service indefinitely and send them to fight anywhere in the world.

Gen. Marshall revealed in an appendix to the formal report he submitted yesterday to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson that the regular army's 1st and 3d divisions, which have been supplied with more modern weapons than other units, have been trained with the navy and marines in landing operations such as would be required of an expeditionary force.

Blame Pressure from Above.

Anti-war senators who attributed Gen. Marshall's startling proposals to pressure from his political superiors found additional evidence to support their contention in the appendix. In it Gen. Marshall stated that the United States army "must be prepared to operate in the arctic or in the tropics, in deserts or mountains, and the elements of our ground forces must be properly balanced to meet any contingencies."

This phraseology strongly resembled that of Secretary Stimson when he told a senate investigating committee on April 15 that "our forces must be prepared for the possibilities of war in many and varied terrains, it being quite uncertain in what part of North or South America, or even possibly other regions, it ultimately may be necessary to use them in the defense of this country and its possessions."

Reverses Former Stand.

Opponents of the Marshall proposals, which would permit creation of a force of from 2 million to 3 million men, recalled that only a year ago the chief of staff strongly opposed increasing the strength of the regular army to 750,000 men.

They recalled also that in February, 1940, before Stimson became secretary of war, Gen. Marshall expressed the view of the war department that a regular army of 242,000 men, together with the National Guard, then numbering about 235,000, could defend the United States and its commitments in the western hemisphere.

Permits Army Over 2 Million.

Gen. Marshall's recommendations for authority to retain National Guardsmen, draftees, and reservists in service for more than a year would permit increasing the strength of the army to 2,348,500 officers and men. The present strength of the army is 1,448,500 officers and men, and President Roosevelt has announced that 900,000 new draftees, the limit under existing law, will be inducted during the current fiscal year.

Moreover, legislation extending the service of draftees now in training presumably would remove the limitation of 900,000 that may be in training at any one time under existing

GEN. WOOD DENOUNCES AEF MOVE AS FRAUD AGAINST DRAFTEES

The war department's request to repeal present restrictions against overseas duty for selective service soldiers operates a deliberate fraud upon the United States' draftees, Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman of the America First committee, declared in a statement last night.

The proposal of the war department, which also asked the removal of prohibitions governing the use of National Guard troops and reservists, was made by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, in a report to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

"The passage of the selective service act was predicated upon a provision which excluded service overseas," said Gen. Wood. "The men were inducted upon that basis. Canada, which has a similar restriction in its draft law, has retained it intact.

"Now congress is asked to tell the drafted men that it did not mean what it said, that they actually are subject to overseas fighting, even without a congressional declaration of war."

Gen. Wood asserted that the net effect of the proposal is to empower the President to send American troops to wage undeclared war in whatever part of the world he may choose.

WAR WOULD END LIBERTY IN U. S., WHEELER SAYS

Senator Cheered by Townsend Clubs.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Buffalo, N. Y., July 4.—Ten thousand followers of the Townsend old age pension movement today sprang to their feet with prolonged cheers when Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana asserted the United States must stay out of the European war or lose the independence established by the nation's founding fathers 165 years ago.

Senator Wheeler [top] and Senator Pepper.

Wheeler's ardent plea against the folly of again spending American blood to "make the world safe for democracy" on battlefields 3,000 miles away came as a climax to the sixth annual convention of the Townsend clubs. It was heard and applauded by pension advocates drawn from all parts of the United States.

Hand clapping greeted an opposite plea from Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, leading senate interventionist. Pepper's address, a diatribe against the noninterventionsts, met with polite response from the audience, but lacked the roar of approval, the waving of thousands of flags, and spontaneity of the reception for Wheeler.

Vote on Issue Evaded.

There was no official counting of noses on the intervention issue. Dr. Francis E. Townsend, 74 year old leader of the movement which bears his name, jumped overboard for war last Tuesday when he declared the country should "fight to the death to aid Britain." Universal cries of "No, no, no" from his followers at that time discouraged any attempts to put over a pro-war resolution, it was learned from other leaders of the organization.

A wave of applause swept thru the auditorium when Senator Wheeler assailed the stand taken by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox in his recent Boston speech calling for American warships to start a shooting war in the Atlantic immediately.

Referring to Knox as the "recreant and fire eating secretary of the navy who represents the drift toward one man government in Washington today," the Montana senator asserted a declaration of war was a matter for congress to decide. He added congress was opposed to war and that was why administration leaders were seeking an undeclared war.

Assails Tactics of Knox.

"There is no power that congress possesses that it should guard with more jealous vigilance than this awful power to plunge the country into war," said Wheeler. "It must not be exercised by some irresponsible and erratic secretary of the navy. We are not at war now and it is the duty of the congress to see that no one but congress takes us into war. Have the courage to tell your representatives and the President that you don't want war.

"How well it would be if Secretary Knox would execute the duties of his office rather than attempt to usurp the function of congress. How well it might be if Secretary Knox would devote himself to building a stronger and mightier navy."

"Right, right," came several shouts from the gallery.

Decision Up to Congress.

"Abraham Lincoln had his Seward even as Franklin D. Roosevelt has his Knox," said the senator. "In 1861 Secretary of State Seward recommended to Lincoln that the President convene congress and declare war on England, France, Russia, and Spain. In 1941 Secretary Knox recommends to Roosevelt that we go to war with foreign powers.

"Even as President Lincoln rejected Seward—so should President Roosevelt reject the bloodthirsty and ruinous advice of his secretary of the navy. President Lincoln's warlike cabinet member proposed war by a declaration of congress. Fiery and warlike tho he was, Seward believed in the constitution and constitutional processes of the United States."

Senator Wheeler reminded the audience that when Knox was being examined by the senate naval affairs committee, prior to his confirmation, he had assured the senators that he was in favor of aiding Britain "in a moral and economic way, never in man power." Pressed further, Knox told the senate committee it was his "conviction" that no steps should be taken which would involve the country in the war.

Assails Knox and Willkie.

"The Knoxes who repudiate their word," said Senator Wheeler, "the Willkies who take solemn pledges of peace before election only to renounce them as 'mere campaign oratory' after election day—they are those who imperil democracy by shaking the faith of Americans.

"How can the people believe in leaders whose convictions are so shallow, whose pledged words mean so little to them? It is that type of leadership in America which threatens democracy. It is such public leaders and officials who destroy the confidence of the American people in their government."

Wheeler said that when he opposed some new lease of power to Roosevelt, his interventionist colleagues in the senate asked what was the matter with him, didn't he trust the President?

"It's not a question of trusting the President," he declared, "but a question of dictatorship or democracy and maintaining our constitutional form of government, with its three branches, each a balance and check upon the others. The time has come for the American people to raise their voices in defense of democracy in the United States."

Reds Denounce Wheeler.

Just before Wheeler spoke, the special detail of Buffalo police outside the hall scattered a dozen communists who were passing out handbills urging full aid for England and soviet Russia against Hitler. The message, addressed to Townsendites, denounced Wheeler and Charles A. Lindbergh as "Hitler's stooges" and claimed they would never be for old age pensions.

Wheeler, waiving one of the handbills aloft, reminded his hearers he had favored pensions as far back as 1924. He told the Townsendites the 7 billion dollars appropriated for aid to England, China "and now Russia" would pay a million of the country's "senior citizens" $200 a month pensions for nearly three years.

Pepper Raps Peace Champions.

Senator Pepper in his speech lit into "the Herbert Hoovers, the Charles Lindberghs, the Roy Howards, the Senator Wheelers, and Senator Nyes, and the Gen. Woods, and those working with and thru the so-called American First committee," as being the real war mongers. He suggested the country would be in dire straits today if these were the leaders instead of Roosevelt.

"O, people of America, what can awaken you to your danger?" asked Pepper. "What whipcrack of warning can arouse you until this nation shall throb with alertness, work, and prayer?

"Has America's heart become callous, insensible to wrong? Has courage been chased out of the American heart by cowardice? Are American leaders no longer those long visioned statesmen of an earlier day?"

Pepper insisted Hitler had gone ahead with his war because noninterventionist sentiment in the United States reassured him there would be no trouble from this quarter.

RATIONING LAWS OF BRITAIN HIT SMALL DEALERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 4.—More than 30,000 London street traders have gone out of business since the war started and thousands of small shopkeepers today were contemplating the prospects of pulling down their shutters. The reason is that the new rationing scheme deprives traders with fewer than 25 registered customers of the right to sell certain rationed foods.

The small trader has been praised for carrying on in spite of being bombed and blasted in hundreds of London streets. Officially he has been assured that after the war his rights will be safeguarded and that there still will be a place for him. But, according to William Robins, president of the Federation of Street Traders' Unions, only one-third of the 50,000 street traders operating in London a year ago have been able to carry on." Wartime regulations, rationing, price control, and the shortage of supplies are blamed. Among the trades affected are tobacconists, confectionaries, green grocers, florists, small dry goods dealers, and others.

Now the beer shortage, which has closed numerous out-of-town pubs, is beginning to affect London. Already many pubs close early in the evening because of their inability to supply customers. Bristol, Southampton, Oxford, Plymouth, and Torquay are among the towns reporting serious beer shortages. At Great Yarmouth, 36 public houses have closed altogether.

MACHINE ARMY NEEDS MEN ALSO, PATTERSON SAYS

Dallas, July 4 (AP).—Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, characterized today as a common fallacy the belief that the more machines an army has the fewer men it needs. "The reverse is true," he said in a speech before the Texas Bar association.

"The maintenance and supply of machines demands a large increase in manpower, and so do the collateral problems of spare parts, gasoline and oil, and provisions for the men. Mechanization has complicated, not simplified, battle and the preparation for battle."

In an interview preceding the speech, Patterson said he endorsed the plea by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, for the lifting of legal restrictions on the place and length of service of the army.

"I don't know whether it will be necessary for our boys to remain in the army longer than one year or whether they will be needed outside the western hemisphere," he said, "but I think we should have an army prepared for whatever emergency we must meet."

MORE EVIDENCE BARED OF ARMY PLANS FOR AEF

Special Training Is Told by Marshall.

law, so that the increase in the army's strength actually would be limited only by the funds made available by congress.

The war department already is preparing estimates for supplemental appropriations aggregating 5 billion dollars to provide sufficient equipment for a total force of 3 million men. The program thus far approved, including a 10 billion dollar appropriation for the current fiscal year, will provide equipment for only 2 million men.

Overseas Garrisons Increased.

Gen. Marshall's supplementary report disclosed that overseas garrisons have been increased from 45,300 to 116,700 under the army's expansion program. Harbor defenses are manned now by 46,500 instead of 4,800 men. The formation of a special division primarily for operation in mountainous country is being studied, according to the report. The army already has 33 divisions, as follows:

"Twenty-six infantry divisions, including 18 National Guard [square] and 8 regular army [triangular]; 1 motorized division [triangular]; 4 armored divisions; 2 horse cavalry divisions, 1 partly complete.

"There are also enough service and reenforcing troops to complete a balanced field force of two armies, totaling four army corps. The two remaining armies, totaling five army corps, are incomplete."

Senators who attributed Gen. Marshall's new recommendations to pressure from Secretary Stimson and President Roosevelt recalled his opposition to the administration's conscription program a year ago. He opposed conscription in testimony before the house military affairs committee before the bill was introduced and his opposition was scarcely disguised when he appeared before the senate military affairs committee, ostensibly in support of the bill.

Testimony Last Year.

On Feb. 23, 1940, testifying before the house military appropriations subcommittee on the war department appropriations bill for the fiscal year 1941, Gen. Marshall set forth the missions of the United States army, as then conceived by the war department. He said:

"After providing for the overseas garrisons of 70,000 soldiers engaged in protecting naval installations, we should maintain in this country a force strong enough to meet our continental requirements, strong enough to meet possible raids, strong enough to control on short notice any threat to the Panama canal, and sufficient to serve as a base for the development of a war army.

"To provide for the missions referred to, the department is of the opinion that there should be a further increase of 15,000 men. . . . To do this would involve a yearly recurring charge of approximately $19,000,000. It would carry the regular establishment to 242,000 men, the minimum of seasoned soldiers we think should be maintained by this country until it is apparent that the world is assuredly embarked on a period of prolonged peace."

Opposed to Conscription.

A few weeks later, in testimony before the house military affairs committee, Gen. Marshall said the strength of the regular army need not be more than 400,000 men to meet the requirements of national defense. He expressed opposition to conscription and said there would be no occasion for it if congress would give the war department authority to mobilize the National Guard for a year's training. The committee recommended increasing the authorized strength of the regular army from 280,000 to 375,000 men, which congress did.

On July 12, 1940, Gen. Marshall appeared before the senate military affairs committee, which was considering the administration's conscription bill. The strength of the regular army at that time, he said, was about 255,000 men.

"And you would like to build that 255,000 up to what?" asked Senator Lister Hill [D., Ala.].

Suggests 375,000.

"A peace strength of 375,000," replied Gen. Marshall, "but we first want the strength that is urgently necessary, which is 355,000, and we will build it up to that as rapidly as possible. That embraces all the ground forces. The remaining 40,000 to go to 375,000 is for the air corps, to handle the equipment that is to be delivered at some later date."

Gen. Marshall said he could get the 335,000 under the voluntary enlistment system, but it might take too long. [In his report yesterday he said the army's present strength of 1,448,500 included 476,000 three year volunteers.]

Altho he repeatedly mentioned 335,000 as the desired objective of the war department, Gen. Marshall told the Military Affairs committee that under the conscription program the units of the regular army would be increased to full war strength, which would make a total of 500,000 men. The conscription program would require an increase in the National Guard units from a total of 220,000 [mobilization strength] to 400,000, he said.

Opposes Large Expansion.

"I might inject here a comment regarding proposals that have been made to increase the regular army to 750,000 men," Gen Marshall added. "If that were done, two things would happen. We would have either to organize units from the ground up without any trained personnel to leaven the mass, which would require about a year, or we would have to emasculate existing units in the regular army in order to provide nuclei for new units.

"I do not think that we should take such a hazard as that at the present time. Another and still more serious effect would be that we would have to emasculate the National Guard in order to find the necessary equipment for the new units. This would mean a complete alteration of the present national defense."

Whereas in February, 1940, Gen. George C. Marshall said that the regular army of 242,000 and the National Guard of 235,000 could defend the United States, he asked a few days ago for authority to keep in service the present army of 1,448,500 men and officers, which would be swelled to 2,348,500 when 900,000 new draftees are taken in. In connection with his original statement it was recalled he objected in July, 1940, to increasing the regular army to 750,000. Estimates to equip 3,000,000 men are now being undertaken by the war department.

Text of Roosevelt's Address

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 4.—The text of President Roosevelt's Independence day address follows:

"In 1776, on the fourth day of July, the representatives of the several states in congress assembled, declaring our independence, asserted that a decent respect for the opinion of mankind required that they should declare the reasons for their action. In this new crisis, we have a like duty.

"In 1776 we waged war in behalf of the great principle that government should derive its just powers from the consent of the governed, in other words, representatives chosen in free elections. In the century and a half that followed, this cause of human freedom swept across the world.

Holds Fundamentals Are in Peril.

"But now, in our generation—in the last few years—a new resistance, in the form of several new practices of tyranny, has been making such headway that the fundamentals of 1776 are being struck down abroad and definitely they are threatened here.

"It is indeed a fallacy, based on no logic, for any Americans to suggest that the rule of force can defeat human freedom in all the other parts of the world and allow it to survive in the United States alone. But it has been that childlike fantasy itself—that misdirected faith—which has led nation after nation to go about their peaceful tasks, relying on the thought, and even the promise, that they and their lives and their government would be allowed to live when the juggernaut of force came their way.

"It is simple—I could almost say simple-minded—for us Americans to wave the flag, to reassert our belief in the cause of freedom—and to let it go at that.

Danger to Neighbors Told.

"Yet, all of us who lie awake at night—all of us who study and study again, know full well that in these days we cannot save freedom with pitchforks and muskets alone, after a dictator combination has gained control of the rest of the world. We know, too, that we cannot save freedom in our own midst, in our own land, if all around us—our neighbor nations—have lost their freedom.

"That is why we are engaged in a serious, in a mighty, in a unified action in the cause of the defense of the hemisphere and the freedom of the seas. We need not the loyalty and unity alone, we need speed and efficiency and toil—and an end to backbiting and an end to the sabotage which runs far deeper than the blowing up of munitions plants.

"I tell the American people solemnly that the United States will never survive as a happy and fertile oasis of liberty surrounded by a cruel desert of dictatorship.

"And so it is that when we repeat the great pledge to our country and to our flag, it must be our deep conviction that we pledge as well our work, our will, and, if it be necessary, our very lives."

Maywood Pilot Is Killed, 2 Hurt as Plane Crashes

Rochelle, Ill., July 4 (AP).—Evan Millen, 29 years old, of Maywood, Ill., was killed and his two passengers were injured today when their single wing plane nose dived at 100 feet and crashed on a farm eight miles east of here. Russell Breeze, Esmond, Ill., who suffered a broken collar bone, and Ralph Torres, 20, a Sycamore farm worker, incurred a broken right arm, back and head injuries, were taken to a hospital at De Kalb.

NO FOREIGN WAR, BROOKS' PLEDGE TO BOYS STATE

Promises to Continue His Senate Fight.

Springfield, Ill., July 4 [Special].—Senator Wayland Brooks today promised 1,200 delegates to the seventh annual assembly of Premier Boys' State that he would continue his fight to prevent American boys from being sent to die in foreign lands.

He reminded the boys at the American Legion Citizenship training camp that they were to become tomorrow's leaders, and added: "You have the right today to expect the leaders of your government to keep it free of the intrigues of power politics and foreign wars.

"It is fitting," he continued, "that we should celebrate the Fourth of July in Springfield, for from this city Abraham Lincoln left to take command of our nation and make Illinois' greatest contribution to the fulfillment of America's destiny.

Training to Live.

"While in every land young men are being trained for war, destruction, and death, you young men are assembled here to be trained to live. You will carry on and preserve our form of government and continued independence from the bitterness, jealousies, and hatred of the old world.

"It shall be my purpose in the senate of the United States to prevent the government from sending you to die in Africa, Asia, Russia, and Japan under the guise of establishing freedoms there which have long since disappeared. It is our duty together to fight to preserve, and to die, if necessary, to protect, our form of government, our country, and our hemisphere so that America may reach her destiny and not meet her fate."

SPEAKS AT CALUMET CITY.

Senator Brooks also spoke before several thousand persons in Calumet City's Memorial park last night, climaxing a day of celebration there. He was introduced by an old friend, Mayor John W. Jaranowski, and said:

"It is a great thing to live in a land where every nationality, creed, and color lives in harmony together, while the rest of world is torn with strife. But we cannot be a great force in the world if we spread our influence over the four corners of the earth.

Can't Police World.

"We can't police the world. We have only 6 per cent of the world's population and 7 per cent of its area. If we divide our strength, send part of our forces three thousand miles east, part three thousand miles west, and another part thousands of miles south, I fear we won't have the influence we should in the final culmination of world events."

Senator Brooks was forced to curtail his Calumet City speech when his voice gave out—the first time, he said, in six years. After finishing, however, he shook hands with several hundred persons.

BRITISH PRESS OFFICER PLANS CHICAGO OFFICE

LISBON, Portugal, July 4 (AP).—Sir Gerald Campbell, director of British information services in the United States, said today he would shortly open new offices in Chicago and San Francisco and perhaps elsewhere.

Sir Gerald will fly to London tomorrow for consultations lasting about 10 days before returning to the United States. He arrived by Clipper last night.

"My activity in the United States must not be regarded as propaganda," he said. "Britain doesn't need any propaganda in the United States; they have our cause at heart. But Americans do want to know more about the country and the cause they are helping."

Pause in Illinois Count

More results in the Chicago Tribune's war poll on the question, "Shall the United States Enter the War to Help Britain Defeat Hitler?" will be published in tomorrow's editions. The count was suspended yesterday because of the holiday.

Every 10th voter on the registration lists in Chicago, Cook county, and nine downstate cities is being polled. All of the 257,484 cards have been sent out. The return card is self-addressed and needs no postage.

New York, July 4 [New York News]—Keep America Out voters celebrated the 4th of July with a 10,470 to 4,877 declaration of independence from Great Britain's war against Hitler in the New York News postcard poll of New York state today.

The day's tally, for the first time since the referendum was started July 1, halted and turned back an early advance by the interventionists. It whittled down from 32.3 per cent to 31.9 per cent the go-in share with a cumulative total of 23,767 ballots from all parts of the state counted.

Figures on the Count.

Empire state voters are marking "yes" or "no" answers to the question: "Shall the United States enter the war to help Britain defeat Hitler?" The grand totals now stand:

Yes—7,593, or 31.9 per cent.
No—16,174, or 68.1 per cent.

Ballots so far have come in from 36 of New York City's 62 assembly districts and from 5 of the 57 counties north of the Bronx and east of Queens.

Swank District Only 43% Opposed.

Cosmopolitan Manhattan, 66.4 per cent against war to date, has proved to be a borough of contrasts with "no" percentages ranging from only 43.0 in the swank Riverside drive-Central park 9th assembly district, to 82.6 per cent in the 20th district, which includes the Triborough bridge section and a fringe of Yorkville.

Following are the state-wide results of the News war poll to date:

	Yes— Votes.	Per cent.	No— Votes.	Per cent.
Upstate totals.....	580	26.7	1,591	73.3
City totals.....	7,013	32.5	14,583	67.5
State-wide totals....	7,593	31.9	16,174	68.1

Five upstate counties, Albany, Herkimer, Orange, Oswego, and Ulster, with a total of 2,171 ballots to date, have been tabulated 580 for and 1,591 against entering the conflict.

ARGENTINE CHIEF PROMISES STRICT NEUTRALITY RULE

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 4 (AP).—Acting President Ramon S. Castillo said today Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu would "affirm the traditional position of Argentina" in international affairs "without any variation" when he appears before the senate July 17. The policy as Castillo has outlined it is "strict neutrality" as much toward the United States as toward non-American powers.

Chile Pledges Aid to Americas.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 4 (AP).—Foreign Minister Juan Rossetti said today Chile would rush aid to any threatened American nation. Speaking with United States Ambassador Claude Bowers during Independence day ceremonies, Rossetti said:

"If some day the territorial integrity or the independence of the sister American nations is threatened Chile will rush its aid to the common effort in accordance with its traditions of inter-American solidarity."

His statement came as a surprise in view of reports in informed quarters that Chile gave only modified support to Uruguay's proposal to regard any American nation engaged in war with a non-American power as nonbelligerent.

Brazil Backs Uruguay Plan.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 4 (AP).—Government sources said tonight that Brazil declared full adherence to Uruguay's proposal that any American nation involved in Europe's war be considered a nonbelligerent.

ST. CHARLES MAY FIND ITS KILLERS THRUPSYCHIATRY

Rodney Brandon.

Society may be protected from killers like Bernard [Knifey] Sawicki if present plans for widening the psychiatric facilities at the St. Charles school for boys are carried thru, Rodney Brandon, state director of public welfare, said last night.

Sawicki, 19 years old, is a former inmate of St. Charles. Last week-end he shot to death Henry Allain, elderly farmer, slain on a farm near Momence because of an old grudge; Park Policeman Charles Speaker, shot after a holdup; John J. Miller, slain while resisting a holdup, and Charles Kawsinski, pal of Sawicki at St. Charles, fatally wounded when he balked at assisting in a robbery.

Heretofore—notably at the time of Sawicki's parole in February, 1940—inmates have been given a cursory psychological diagnosis, usually by a physician who also must provide medical attention.

ROSALIND RUSSELL.

Hollywood, Cal., July 4 (AP).—Rosalind Russell, the film colony's No. 1 bachelor girl, said today she is not engaged and has no plans to change her single status. She denied reports that she and Fred Brisson, actor's agent and son of Actor Carl Brisson, were yachting to Mexico to be married.

Miss Russell spent the Fourth of July at her home in Beverly Hills and had dinner tonight with Brisson, because she is on call at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio tomorrow.

"We're not even engaged," said Miss Russell. "Furthermore, I am 30, not 34, and Mr. Brisson is 29, instead of 24. I don't know how the story got out that we were to be married."

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC FINDS THE GOING HARD IN CHICAGO

West Side Routes Are Most Inadequate.

BY HAL FOUST.

The inadequacy of Chicago's automobile thorofares, especially on the west side, was demonstrated in yesterday's holiday traffic. Residents were subjected to annoyances, delays, and hazards in leaving the city for picnics or excursions and in assembling for an American Legion celebration in Soldiers' field in the evening. Tourists were discouraged from entering the city.

On the highways around the city there were steady streams of automobiles thruout the day and well into the evening. Conspicuous were licenses of vacationists from other states, part of a banner travel year in which 5½ billion dollars is to be spent in recreational motoring. Many were bypassing Chicago. The American Automobile association estimates that 250 million dollars a year in tourist patronage bypasses the city.

Narrow, Bumpy, Jogging.

Those who drove into the city from the broad highways leading from the west, Joliet road, Ogden avenue, Roosevelt road, North avenue, and Lake street, found themselves on narrow streets, some bumpy, jogging between stop lights. In Oak Park and neighboring suburbs, where there has been a strong advocacy for one way streets on Chicago's west side, each of the main boulevards, Jackson and Washington, accomodated not more than one lane in each direction between parkers.

Some traffic bound for the American Legion event took Roosevelt road or Cermak road which, at least on the map, were more direct routes to Soldiers' field. The map doesn't indicate distance traveled up and down over pavement bumps.

In Roosevelt road, the east bound traveler encountered rough brick at Austin avenue. At Laramie avenue he entered a one lane slab where he couldn't pass the occasional slow poke without endangering springs in the holes in asphalt bound macadam between street car tracks. In Cermak road the traveler found himself on a business street within Chicago that developed east of Ashland avenue into a rutted trail, impassable except on the car tracks.

Lack of Markers.

In Washington boulevard, this main route winds thru Garfield park without the aid of lane markers to guide drivers on the curves.

From Garfield park to Union park, the traveler enjoyed a fairly expeditious pace in one way Warren boulevard. Thereafter to the loop, he was on busy two way Washington boulevard, while expansive Randolpn street, one block to the north, was vacant. Randolph has been advocated as a one way route in combination with Washington east of Union park, with curbs protecting express traffic thru Randolph street market parkers who on business days clutter the entire broad pavement.

BEING CAUTIOUS WON'T SAVE U. S., JACKSON WARNS

Washington, D. C., July 4 (AP).—Attorney General Robert H. Jackson said tonight that the American people should recognize that no amount of "cautious behavior" or "polite talk" would earn the good will of dictators and that "ultimately we must come to the day when we shall face their threats and their enmity for no other reason than that we persist in living the kind of life we live."

This is true, he declared in a radio address, because the Declaration of Independence is "a standing incitement to overturn tyranny anywhere." He asserted the declaration was the "nightmare of conquerors."

Jackson said the principles of the declaration should guide Americans asking each other which way safety and security lie in these times.

HOLIDAY MOTOR ACCIDENTS TAKE TOLL OF 9 LIVES

Attorney Murphy O. Tate Killed in Wisconsin.

Nine residents of the Chicago area lost their lives in holiday traffic accidents yesterday. Most of the accidents occurred in territory surrounding the city, others elsewhere. In addition three persons died of injuries suffered earlier.

Murphy O. Tate, 55 years old, of 1116 North Shore avenue, a personal injury attorney for many years, was killed when his automobile sidewiped a truck on a gravel road near his summer home, 25 miles east of Hayward, Wis.

The truck driver, Harry G. Marriott of Ashland, Wis., told police the accident occurred on a curve and said Tate apparently did not see the truck until too late. Tate's wife and sister, who were with him, were unhurt.

Uncle and Nephew Killed.

Thomas Boduch, 46 years old, 3637 South Paulina street, and his nephew, Frank Niemiec Jr., 10, 1628 West 34th street, were killed yesterday when Boduch crashed his automobile into a parked truck outside Greenleaf, Wis. Boduch's two sons, Teddy, 7, and Edward, 10, were injured. Boduch was driving with the boys to join their families at Crivitz, Wis.

John Englert, 25, of 4917 West 31st place, was killed and three others riding with him were injured when an automobile in which they were riding sidewiped another car in route 66, half a mile northeast of Wolf road, Lyons township, and plunged into a ditch.

The injured are: James Rollins, 29, of 10544 Oglesby avenue; Mrs. Evelyn McCullen, 25, of 4349 South Christiana avenue, and Miss Marie Kelly, 21, also of 4349 South Christiana avenue.

Chicagoan Dies in Indiana Crash.

Two persons, one a Chicagoan, were killed and eight others were injured in a collision of two automobiles 10 miles southwest of Frankfort, Ind. The dead were: Mrs. Rose Luzader, 2641 Washington boulevard, and James P. Gartland, 27, of Fort Mitchell, Ky. Among the injured are Mrs. Luzader's husband, Philip, and Raymond Royalton and Ruth Eames, 18, both of De Kalb.

Benny Kraucunas, 48, of 1505 West 120th street, was killed at 120th street and Ashland avenue by an automobile driven by Kenneth S. Bye, 10217 Calumet avenue.

George Bobalik, 34, of 4027 Euclid street, East Chicago, Ind., was injured fatally when the automobile which he was driving was struck by a South Shore train at Chicago and Kennedy avenues in East Chicago.

Two Killed as Car Hits Tree.

Two colored persons were killed and a third was injured seriously when a truck driven by William Moore, 35, of 155 Douglas avenue, Elgin, went off Illinois highway 31, struck a tree and burned, about one mile north of St. Charles, Kane county. Moore was injured. Mrs. Moore, 40, and James Scott, 42, of the same address, formerly of 3130 South State street, Chicago, were killed.

Mrs. Louise Ritter, 75, of 1436 Wisconsin avenue, Berwyn, died in Belmont hospital of injuries suffered Thursday night when she was struck by a motorcycle as she was crossing Diversey avenue near Pulaski road. Walter Miller, 21, 329 North Lotus avenue, was the motorcyclist.

Joseph Lichtmann, 64, of 6917 Crandon avenue, died of injuries received June 27 when he was struck at Lake street and Michigan avenue by an automobile driven by Frank R. Reynolds, 38, of 1312 North Monitor avenue.

Fred Belmar, 51, a Negro, address unknown, died in Michael Reese hospital after he was run down at 32d street and Michigan avenue. The driver was James Sutherlan, 36, of 216 East 31st street, also colored.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 467 persons had been killed in Cook county since Jan. 1. In the same period, 334 persons were killed in Chicago, where 12,163 were injured.

LONDONERS VIE WITH AMERICANS IN HAILING JULY 4

It Is a British Holiday All Around World.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 4.—For the first time in history Britons almost outdid the Americans here in celebrating the Fourth of July.

Sir Archibald Sinclair.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, air minister, in the presence of United States Ambassador John G. Winant and Mrs. Winant, other embassy officials, and members of the American Eagle squadron, unveiled a tablet in St. Paul's cathedral to the memory of Pilot Officer William Mead Lindsley Fiske, the first American to be killed in the battle of Britain.

Winant Says Ideals Live.

Later Winant, presiding at the American society's Independence day luncheon, said the ideals set out in the Declaration of Independence still are as precious to Americans as when they first were announced. Ernest Brown, minister of health, who was the guest of honor, said, "The Declaration of Independence now expresses our [British] aims."

Many taxicabs and buildings flew American flags alongside union jacks. Special British Broadcasting programs featured the American national anthem and the Declaration of Independence.

Australia Breaks Precedents.

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 4.—The commonwealth government today officially recognized Independence day for the first time in Australia's history, ordering that the Stars and Stripes be flown beside the Australian flag on government buildings thruout Australia.

IT WAS A BIGGER, HEARTIER, AND SAFER 'FOURTH'

Fireworks Injuries Fall Far Below Last Year's.

No Fireworks Deaths

The Associated Press said at midnight that there were no deaths caused by fireworks in the nation yesterday. In 1940 two deaths occurred.

(Pictures on back page.)

Chicagoland yesterday held its greatest and heartiest July Fourth celebration in many years. Casualty reports indicated it had been one of the safest on record.

Late last night only three drowning and 57 fireworks injuries were on record. There were 111 last year. Two arrests for illegal fireworks sales had been made in the city. This is the last year holiday explosives may be sold legally at retail in Illinois.

Beautiful summer weather brought hundreds of thousands out of doors for the day. The sky was cloudless. Temperatures ranged from the high 60s to the low 70s.

Going and Coming.

The outflow of automobiles toward resorts of Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan began shortly after dawn and swelled in volume as the sun climbed higher. And the migrants met hundreds of cars from surrounding states headed for Chicago and its urban lures.

In the city, beaches were well populated. On the city's fringes, the forest preserves were comfortably filled with picnickers. By midafternoon 17,000 had entered the Brookfield zoo.

While the sun still was high, thousands of Chicagoans moved upon Soldiers' field to attend the 7th annual patriotic spectacle and fireworks display sponsored by the Cook county council of the American Legion. It was the major event of the day in the city proper.

Over 50,000 Attend.

More than 50,000 spectators were in the field when diving fighter planes of the United States naval reserves signaled the show's start. Thunderous applause greeted the Commonwealth Edison post drum and bugle corps, twice national champions, and the Board of Trade post color guard. These men carried the original flag of the Chicago light artillery which fired the first field artillery shot for the Union in the Civil war.

Circus acts and martial music, topped off by a giant fireworks display, completed the evening.

Meanwhile other pyrotechnic displays and pageants were being held in Wheaton, Wilmington, Joliet, Oak Park, Berwyn, Hinsdale, Downers Grove, Elmhurst, Calumet City, Skokie, Highland Park, Evanston, Lake Forest, Waukegan, and in a number of Chicago neighborhoods.

Camp Algonquin Celebration.

In Calumet Memorial park, Senator Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] delivered a patriotic address as the climax of a celebration that was closed by a fireworks spectacle.

Underprivileged children of Chicago had a gala celebration in Camp Algonquin on the Fox river. The big event of the day was a water carnival and coronation of the carnival queen. After a holiday dinner, the youngsters watched a brilliant fireworks display, supervised by Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities. [Gifts from THE TRIBUNE'S readers help maintain the camp.]

Only a few of the day's fireworks victims suffered worse than minor injuries. Hattie Henderson, colored, was arrested after a group of youngsters admitted to the Stanton avenue police that they had bought firecrackers at her store, 3151 South Park way. Carmelia Esposito was charged with offering fireworks for sale in a store at 2048 Harrison street.

The day's first drowning victim was Nick Calici, 19 years old, 5242 Congress street, who lost his life in Griswold lake, near Wauconda. Calici sank while bathing with two Chicago companions. Another victim was Raymond Jacobs, 18, of 3443 Lowell avenue. He sank suddenly in Diamond lake, near Mundelein, while paddling about 300 feet from shore with his brother, Alvin Jr., 13. The third victim was Stanley J. Kolecki, 23, of 8100 Houston avenue. He and several friends were in a boat which upset on Cedar lake, near Crown Point, Ind. The others reached shore safely.

Welcomed Home

Sergt. Edward Palzynski is greeted by Bunny Zerbicki and his mother at Dearborn street station. He arrived with soldiers from Camp Forrest.

A total of 1,411 soldiers from the Chicago area in federal training at Camp Forrest, Tenn., arrived here early yesterday aboard two special Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad trains to celebrate Independence day. The men will return to Camp Forrest on Monday.

The first train, carrying 897 men, arrived at 7:15 a. m. The second, carrying 514, arrived at 8:57 a. m.

More than 2,000 others from Camp Forrest who live in other parts of Illinois came home for the holidays via trains, planes, and buses.

BIG PUSH TO SPAN BEREZINA RIVER IS SMASHED: RUSSIA

Nazis Hurled Back with Heavy Losses.

MOSCOW, July 5 [Saturday] (AP).—The Red army today reported smashing a great German effort to cross the historic Berezina river, strategic barrier on the road to Moscow where Napoleon lost thousands of his men on his retreat from the Russian city 129 years ago.

The Germans, apparently uniting several drives to make a break-thru at this point along the Minsk-Moscow highway, repeatedly tried to cross the river and each time "were thrown back with huge losses."

[The Moscow radio declared "the number of German prisoners and casualties" since the start of the war "amounts to 700,000." "The places which have been conquered are covered with the bodies of hundreds of thousands of German soldiers," the radio said.]

The fighting was uninterrupted thruout Friday.

Russians Admit Withdrawal.

Apparently the main fighting continued in the region about Borizov, and this was said to have "developed unfavorably for the enemy," but the Russians acknowledged what may be a significant withdrawal in the vicinity of the town of Lepel, 375 miles west of Moscow.

This town, a railhead, lies 40 miles due north of Borizov and only 70 miles west of Vitebsk, thru which runs the Stalin line. The Russian troops after heavy fighting with tanks and airplanes withdrew to new positions east of Lepel—nearer the Stalin line—the soviet communique acknowledged.

The Russians announced that violent fighting raged thruout Friday all the way from Dvinsk, near the Latvian border, thru Lepel, Borizov, and Bobruisk, just south of Borizov, and on down to Tarnopol, in the old Polish Ukraine—a front of more than 500 miles.

German Losses Heavy.

The Russians held their positions all along the front except at Lepel and also in the Dvinsk sector where, after a German tank and motorized infantry attack into which the invaders threw reserves, the defenders fell back to new positions. The Russians first handed the Germans "heavy losses," especially to tanks.

Considerable motorized and mechanized units also were thrown into the German attack in the Tarnopol sector, where the attackers were trying to smash thru toward the southeast and the Ukraine. The Russians said they held firm there.

The fighting in general was described as relentless, with artillery, aviation, and the bayonet employed all along the bitterly contested line and with the Berezina sector apparently the point of heaviest German pressure.

[The Germans officially have claimed several crossings of the Berezina river.]

GERMANS SEIZE 20,000 RUSSIANS IN MINSK TRAP

BERLIN, July 4 (AP).—The iron noses of German panzer brigades edged up to the outposts of the Stalin line tonight and Europe's two greatest armies, already in bloody combat west of that defense zone, braced for the supreme test.

The Germans said the Russian army was dropping back to the line from the Black sea to the Latvian border; that Nazi troops had forced the Berezina river, death trap of Napoleon's retreat, in several places, and that the German penetration now exceeds at some points the deepest point reached in the World war campaign against imperial Russia.

Tonight, too, a high command special communique confirmed earlier reports that 20,000 men of the Red armies encircled at Minsk had surrendered after shooting their political commissar. This brought to some 180,000 the prisoners officially reported taken in the campaign.

Admit Stiff Opposition.

It was admitted freely, however, that stiff opposition is being offered still in the territory of old Poland and in the Baltic.

German troops in the rear constantly encountered unexpected resistance. The advance wedges driving into old Russia far to the east found nests of opposition developing on their flanks which required them to spread out and execute new encircling movements.

With the entire front in motion, other difficulties of the campaign became apparent. German motorized equipment was forced to conquer sandy, dusty, and uncertain Russian roads. Blistering heat was followed by rain in some sections. There even was snow in the Lwow sector, and in the area of the Pinsk marshes insects plagued the troops.

German Columns Move Up.

But column after column of fresh German troops, armed with their modern apparatus, moved up while German war correspondents painted this picture of the Red army in fighting retreat:

Hundreds of thousands of Russian dead lying on the fields in the center of the 2,000 mile front, in the Bialystok sector.

Soviet troops retreating four columns abreast along the Bialystok-Minsk road, under the pounding of Stukas [dive bombers].

Roads littered for 40 miles with the wreckage of Russian war material, piles of wrecked trucks, tanks, the carcasses of horses, and the bodies of troops.

Description of Stalin Line.

The Stalin line, where the Germans acknowledge very stiff resistance is to be expected, runs from the Black sea east of the Dniester river, turning north at about Mogilev and extending over Zhitomir to the Dnieper river. From the northern banks of the Dnieper the fortified zone stretches over Vitebsk to Pskov, then westward to Lake Peipus, between Estonia and Russia, and thence north to the Gulf of Finland.

The German air force now is being turned against this line in preparation for the great assault.

DNB, German news agency related that German planes had swooped down on the airport near Smolensk, on the road to Moscow, yesterday, dropping bombs in a line of 60 planes and in gasoline tanks, sending burning wreckage into the air. Smolensk is about 250 miles southwest of Moscow.

Report Baltic Success.

The high command, besides reporting the crossing of the Berezina in the center of the front, said the German army had reached the Latvian-soviet border on the north. Other accounts, from the Ukraine front, told how the Germans fought thru forest fires to force soviet armored units out of their strongholds in the woods northeast of Luck.

Around Dubno, on the same front, hundreds of 52 ton soviet tanks, attacking in chain fashion, were blasted to pieces.

Clean Up Ethiopia

Only an Italian garrison at Gondar and scattered forces near Assab stood between the British and control of all Italian East Africa yesterday after the Italian commander surrendered with his forces in the region south of Addis Ababa.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 4 (AP).—Except for the besieged Italian garrison at Gondar, northern Ethiopia, and a small Italian force dispersed in the wilderness southwest of Assab, Eritrea, all Italian East Africa has been cleaned up by British and Ethiopian forces, the middle east command announced today.

The communique said Gen. Pietro Gazzera, supreme commander of the remaining Italian forces under arms in Ethiopia, had surrendered with all the forces operating in Galla Sidamo province.

Several thousand Italian troops remain at Gondar, virtually the last of the armies of 250,000 with which the duke of Aosta, now a captive, once threatened the rear of the British middle eastern forces guarding Egypt and Suez.

A heavy air raid on Tripoli, capital and chief base of Libya, for the second successive night was reported by the RAF. Big bombers set fire to two ships, each of about 5,000 tons, outside the Tripoli harbor.

STALIN LINE LIKE A MODEL OF NAZI, FRENCH BARRIERS

Averages 25 Miles Deep Along Its 1,100 Miles.

Few facts have leaked out about Russia's Stalin line, which the Germans are approaching and there is no reliable basis on which to judge its strength. Here is the best available picture:

In general it is a 1,100 mile manmade barrier running along the old Russian western frontier from the Black sea to the Gulf of Finland.

It combines the features of France's Maginot line, including underground fortresses, with the advantages of Germany's west wall. Whether it can be flanked, as was the Maginot, is not known.

The bulk of the Stalin system was completed in 1933, but it has been strengthened continually. Work was speeded up particularly during the last few weeks.

Where the Line Runs.

The line begins at the Black sea and runs east of the Dniester river, boundary between Russia's Ukraine and Bessarabia, which she acquired from Rumania last year, about 200 miles to Mogilev.

Here the line turns north and runs for approximately 250 miles to the River Dnieper, going thru the vicinity of Zhitomir. The fortifications then follow roughly the Dnieper northward, going beyond for a total of about 350 miles to Vitebsk, then on farther north and slightly east for 200 miles to Pskov. From Pskov the line runs approximately 100 miles along the eastern shore of Lake Peipus to the Gulf of Finland.

Russia has been much more secretive about the Stalin line than, for instance, France was about the Maginot line. The Kremlin has not permitted even general descriptions. One exception was an article published April 11 in the soviet army newspaper, Red Star—first mention in the soviet press of the fortifications in several years.

A Look Inside the Line.

A special correspondent told of entering a great steel and concrete underground fortress thru a door concealed in a hillside. Inside he found a warm, well lighted labyrinth of war defense machinery, complete with power plant, dormitory, and fire stations. The guns and machine guns were said to be a unit in a completely fortified zone of fire.

These underground fortresses are provisioned for long sieges.

An invader must do more than conquer the Maginot type fortifications, however, for the Stalin line averages about 25 miles in depth.

The Russians are believed to have employed additional strengthening devices, including deforestation of a belt ranging from a few to as much as a hundred miles in width along much of the frontier. Much of the Stalin line zone has been depopulated.

British Press On

British bombing of Beirut and Soueida and encirclement of Deir-ez-Zor were the principal actions yesterday in the war in Syria.

BEIRUT, Lebanon, July 4 (AP).—Native civilians fled to the hills around this Lebanese capital tonight as the British stepped up their aerial bombardment of Beirut. Three times in five hours today the city was raided. Many fires were started. Also raided was Soueida, capital of the Jebel Druz section of Syria.

In land operations today the heaviest action was in the Deir-ez-Zor sector on the Euphrates, the French acknowledging a British column had encircled the garrison. [British headquarters at Cairo said an Indian column had occupied Deir-ez-Zor.]

Turkish Treaty Confirmed.

VICHY, France, July 4.—Jacques Benoist-Mechin, secretary of state, who made an urgent voyage to Ankara, Turkey, for Chief of State Marshal Petain, reported to the cabinet tonight that he had confirmed the validity of the Franco-Turkish treaty. Under this treaty the countries recognize existing boundaries and agree to friendly relations.

[In Ankara, according to the Associated Press, it was reported the French envoy had tried but failed to obtain permission to send arms thru Turkish territory to Syria.]

ICELAND OPPOSED TO OCCUPATION BY U. S. TROOPS

Prime Minister Protests Rumored Plan.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 4.—Iceland, proud of its 1,000 years as a neutral republic without an army or a navy, is opposed to occupation by United States armed forces. Dispatches from Washington have indicated that American troops might soon be sent to Iceland to replace the British.

Hermann Jonasson.

Iceland protested the present British occupation.

Hermann Jonasson, prime minister of Iceland, made these points clear when this correspondent interviewed him on a recent visit to the island. A suggestion that the Icelandic government might negotiate for American defense of the island met with a definite "no."

Always Stood for Neutrality.

"This country always has stood for neutrality," he said, "and we have hoped never to see a soldier or a king here. As a matter of principle we must protest an American occupation, just as we protested the British. We still are doing our best to observe strict neutrality in this war."

"Of course," he added with a chuckle, "neutrality is a very different thing today than it was two years ago. They say the United States is neutral!"

Concerning Anglo-Icelandic relations, the prime minister said that diplomatically they always had been good.

"And so, also, have Iceland's relations with Germany," he added.

Fear American Boisterousness.

Many residents of Iceland fear that the United States troops might be more unruly than the well behaved Tommies. The little disturbance that occurred during the first weeks of the British invasion involved Canadian troops more than the British.

However, business men on the whole probably would welcome the better trade possibilities of United States occupation. Icelandic credit for fish, mutton, and skeepskins sold to Britain is held in Britain in pounds which cannot be released for buying elsewhere, yet many goods which the Icelanders would like to buy are not obtainable in England. The foreign trade of Iceland in 1937, for example, was approximately six times as large per capita as that of the United States.

NINE U. S. NURSES IN LONDON AFTER RESCUE AT SEA

LONDON, July 4 (AP).—Nine American Red Cross nurses, survivors of the torpedoed Dutch steamer Maasdam, arrived in London tonight and celebrated the Fourth of July by sending cables to the United States, reassuring parents or relatives of their safety.

The nine were members of a party of 17 nurses bound for England on the vessel which was sunk in the North Atlantic last month. They are Mildred Marian McGill, Tekama, Neb.; Marie Carolyn Golk, Chicago; Susan Shirley Ralph, Jamaica, N. Y.; Livenia Martha Fulton, Amherst, Mass.; Mildred Estelle Doane, Dedham, Mass.; Marion Catherine Weimer, Detroit; Lillian Evans, Arlington, Mass.; Nancy Mary Heberden, Lee Center, N. Y.; Ruth Marion Martin, Washington, D. C.

Physicians said the girls were badly in need of rest and barred interviews. A wealthy Englishwoman invited them to her country place.

NAZIS WARN RUSSIANS THEY WILL NOT BE FED IF 'EARTH IS SCORCHED'

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 4.—Following Dictator Stalin's instructions to the Russian people to destroy everything of value before invading armies, German planes today showered warning leaflets upon Leningrad and other cities. The leaflets said that if the Russians destroy food supplies they need not expect to be fed when they surrender or are surrounded. Peasants, too, were warned to cease destroying crops by German radio broadcasts in the Russian language.

Soviet workers also have been warned to preserve their factories, thereby guaranteeing their jobs and means of existence. Workers in Lithuania and Latvia have prevented destruction of factories and Red army stores by fleeing soviet troops.

In Estonia, however, many factories and stores have been destroyed. Today huge clouds of smoke rose from Tallinn, where sections of the city an factories are burning.

FORMER ENVOY IS SPEAKER AT SLAVS' MEETING

An account of events leading to the Nazi attack on Jugo-Slavia was given yesterday by Arthur Bliss Lane, former United States minister to Jugo-Slavia, speaking at the Jugo-Slavian National meeting on the grounds of St. Sava's Serbian monastery, three miles north of Libertyville. More than 7,000 persons attended.

Arthur Bliss Lane.

Lane, who served in Belgrade for more than three years, told his audience that German officials refused to discuss the dispute between the two countries.

"King Peter's government did not repudiate the treaty signed by its predecessor with Germany," he said. "In fact, it did all it could to avert a break with Germany. But both the German minister of foreign affairs and German high officials in Berlin rebuffed any attempt to settle the differences peaceably."

The crowd was composed of Slav groups in Chicago.

Composer of Opera U. S. Hailed Joins Red Army

MOSCOW, July 4 (AP).—Dmitri Shostakovich, one of Russia's most celebrated composers, has volunteered for service in the People's army at Leningrad.

[Shostakovich, who is 34 years old, is known in the United States principally for his opera, "Lady Macbeth of Mzensk." The opera was acclaimed in Cleveland in 1935. He also composed several symphonies, three ballets, music for a number of films, and for the stage productions of "Hamlet" and "King Lear."]

GERMAN PLANES BOMB INDUSTRIAL AREA IN ENGLAND

LONDON, July 5 [Saturday] (AP).—The German air force subjected England to the sharpest raids in some time last night, lashing out at the industrial midlands and scattered targets elsewhere while British bombers again pummeled objectives on the opposite side of the channel. The government minimized the damage caused by the Nazis, but acknowledged there had been casualties and some deaths. Three German bombers were reported downed.

Among the targets at which the British night raiders were said to have struck were the port of Brest and the submarine base at Lorient, both on the French coast.

[The Germans said small RAF forces had dropped bombs in western Germany, causing minor damage.]

The RAF overnight operations were a sequel to a violent daylight raid on Bremen, Germany's second largest port.

Downed 16 planes, Say Nazis.

BERLIN, July 4 (AP).—Twenty British bombers, protected by strong fighter formations, attacked the English channel coast today, DNB, German news agency, reported, and nine bombers and three fighters were shot down. Two German planes were admitted lost. Earlier, informed sources said four of 12 planes bombing Bremen were shot down.

BATISTA SLASHES PAY OF 20,000 ON CUBAN PAY ROLL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 4.—A drastic cut of all government expenses was decreed today by President Fulgencio Batista, effective July 1. The pay of all employés was reduced. Minimum salaries of $30 a month were slashed 3 per cent and maximum salaries of $500 for cabinet members were reduced 20 per cent.

The measure affects approximately 20,000 officials and employés on the pay rolls of the national, provincial, and municipal governments thruout the island.

President Batista said the cuts were necessary because of the refusal of congress to sanction his new emergency tax law, drafted by the minister of the treasury. It would have raised $10,000,000 in extra revenue by a general increase of all taxes affecting industry, commerce, and agriculture.

FINDS 'AMAZONS' OF RUSSIA TAKE PART IN BATTLES

BERLIN, July 4 (AP).—A German correspondent on the eastern front today reported that "Amazon" troops of the soviet union took part in fighting east of Bialystok.

He said the body of one, a pretty girl of about 17, was found in a truck, still clutching the sort of automatic rifle used by Russian parachute jumpers. She was in a blue lieutenant's uniform, and near her lay a suitcase filled with Paris lingerie and dozens of shoes.

The reporter, Karl Behrend, said, however, that other "Amazons," while well armed, were poorly dressed and wore shoes of cloth.

Australian Destroyer Sunk by Bombs; Save All Crew

SYDNEY, Australia, July 5 [Saturday] (AP).—The commonwealth navy ministry today announced the loss of the Australian destroyer Waterhen in the Mediterranean. The warship, the announcement said, sank while in tow after being damaged by bombs. There were no casualties. The 1,100 ton vessel had a normal complement of 134 officers and men.

SHOT BY PASSING MOTORIST.

Mrs. Nellie Snip, 47 years old, 144 West 103d place, was shot thru the right wrist yesterday as she waited at 111th street and Sacramento boulevard for a bus to take her to a picnic. The bullet was fired by a passing motorist.

DAY by DAY on the FARM & GAIL COMPTON

How the Garden Grows.

July 4, 1941.

An official communique from the family sized vegetable garden at the Du Page county farm reveals that peas can be added to the list of fresh vegetables available to the farm residents. Vegetables that already have graced the table of the farm homes include spinach, radishes, lettuce, onions, rhubarb, and asparagus.

The peas are a tangled mass, and each plant in the long row bears a profusion of well shaped pods filled with peas. The gardener opened several pods and found the peas well enough developed for eating. Not far behind are the bush beans. They are in blossom, and delicate lavender flowers can be seen all thru the rows. The long, curved pods hook out from the big leaf clusters, and many of them are three or four inches long.

Summer Damage Appears.

There are signs of the usual summer damage to the vegetables from insects and weather. The young squash leaves were burned by the hot sun of the last week. The kohlrabi leaves are riddled with holes. The leaves on several of the potato plants are turning brown around the edges and curling up.

The potato trouble has been diagnosed as the work of the potato leafhopper. These are small, active, light green insects that feed on the under sides of the leaves. They extract the sap from the leaf with a sap sucking device on their mouths. Injury first appears at the tip and margin of the leaf. Plants thus stunted die prematurely and fail to yield as healthy plants.

The cure for leafhopper is the usual bordeaux mixture, sprayed on the plants at intervals of a week or 10 days. Three gallons of spray will treat a row of about 350 feet in the garden.

Most of the other plants in the garden have been sprayed with a solution of arsenate of lead, which is quite effective in killing many common garden pests. It is also a good preventative and discourages insects from nibbling on the leaves.

Tomato Plants Bloom.

The tomato plants are beginning to blossom and seem to have enjoyed the recent hot weather. They are notoriously subject to frost bite and do not thrive in cold weather. The weather of the last few weeks has been ideal for them, and they are responding rapidly. Some sweet corn that was planted a week ago is up three inches already as a result of the ideal growing conditions.

The giant of the vegetable garden is the stray sun flower that took root near the flower border. This thick stalked plant now stands well over six feet high and shows no sign of stopping its growth. The nearest rivals in height are the artichokes, which reach up a little more than three feet.

The smallest and daintiest plants in the garden are the young asparagus plants. Their fragile, feathery blades stand only a few inches high.

JAPANESE MOVE TO CUT OFF PORT OF VLADIVOSTOK

U. S. Aid for Russia Seen Hampered by Action.

TOKIO, July 4 (AP).—Japan is considering an extension of the limits of her territorial waters which, in effect, would cut off Vladivostok, Russia's big Pacific port, from normal contact with the rest of the world and hamper any shipments of American material to the warring U. S. S. R.

German correspondents induced Koh Ishii, cabinet spokesman, to make this positive disclosure in a press conference today.

"Has the Japanese government discussed this step regarding the waters surrounding Vladivostok?" a German newspaper man asked after Ishii said the cabinet had taken up the question of expanding territorial waters beyond the internationally recognized three mile zone.

Pass Thru Jap Waters.

"Of course," Ishii replied, "but the question has not been decided."

Ishii indicated that the government was seriously considering the possibility of American aid shipments to Russia via Vladivostok, on the Sea of Japan, which is all but enclosed by the huge arc of the Japanese islands.

At the same time the newspaper Hochi commented:

"If the United States sends arms and munitions to the soviet by virture of the all-out aid lease-lend law, they must pass thru Japanese waters en route to Vladivostok.

"This means that Germany must apply tripartite tactics. The war thus would be extended to Japanese waters."

Declines to Bare Policy.

Japan is committed to Germany and Italy both at war with Russia—to help them against any attack by a new belligerent but, while the government said Wednesday it had decided on a policy toward the Russian-axis war, Ishii would not say today what that policy is.

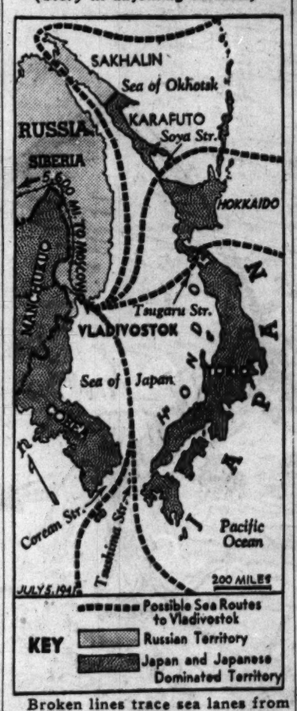
Newspaper discussion, indicating the Japanese might act to close routes to Vladivostok, has centered on Soya strait, between Hokkaido and Sakhalin, only 25 miles wide, and the still narrower Tsugaru strait, between Hokkaido and Hondo, the main Japanese islands.

[There remain routes into the Sea of Japan thru its southern mouth, the Chosen and Tsushima straits, between Corea and the Japanese mainland, and the Russian controled passage thru the Sea of Okhotsk around the northern tip of Sakhalin, a long Japanese-Russian island off the Siberian coast. However, the northern passage, besides being more than 2,000 miles out of the way, is barred by ice much of the year.]

Ishii was asked how Japan would regard any stationing of United States planes at Vladivostok (less than 700 miles from Tokio). This, he responded, would be viewed as "an unfriendly act."

Routes to Port

(Story in adjoining column.)



Broken lines trace sea lanes from the Pacific thru the Sea of Japan to Vladivostok, which could be closed off if Japanese carried out extension of limits of their territorial waters. Such an action would hamper American shipments of war materials to Russia thru its only Siberian port. The northern route past Sakhalin Island is barred by ice much of the year.

ARMY CAMP PUTS NEW LIFE IN OLD MINERAL WELLS

Struggling Texas Spa Now Packed with Spenders.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mineral Wells, Tex., July 4.—From Oregon to Maine for 50 years the aged and infirm, or just the tired businessman, have been coming to the local Fountain of Youth to drink or bathe in its mineral waters.

Since the middle of March things have been different. Less than two miles southeast of town is Camp Wolters, largest of the army's four infantry replacement centers. There an army of young men from every state in the union, soon to reach 19,000, has been undergoing the new 13 week basic course in training to be foot soldiers, backbone of the army.

It has meant new life for Mineral Wells, dependent for its existence on tourist trade whose peak season runs from January thru April. Since the depression it has been a job for the local merchants to get two nickels to rub together.

Santa Claus Arrives.

Rearmament was a god-send. Leading citizens of the community went to work, contacted the right people in the state and national capitals, and lo! an army training center descended upon them, out in the rugged rock hills of what is known as the Palo Pinto mountains.

Santa Claus had come to Mineral Wells. Construction began on Nov. 16. In no time at all hundreds of clerks and 18,000 laborers were churning thru the mud. They had to eat and they had to sleep, and most of them wanted to play.

The road to camp became lined with trailers, shacks, piano boxes, cardboard cartons, tents, anything at all in which a man could sleep. Eating places sprang up over night. And the rents in town went zooming. The local relief rolls dwindled away with ditch diggers able to draw $5 and semi-skilled workmen as much as $21 a day. Every one got well — financially.

Then Back to Earth.

Then came the army, a cadre of 209 officers and 1,080 enlisted men to get the camp organized in time for the first draftees on March 13. But these men couldn't pay the sky high prices. Mineral Wells had to come down to earth. It took a struggle, but the commanding officer, Brig. Gen. William H. Simpson, who served with the 33d division in France during the World war, now believes the situation is more or less in hand.

Rents for the married officers and noncoms are still high — a $30 a month, three room, garage apartment rents for $50—but they are slowly coming down. The Baker, leading hotel in town, has established a sliding scale of $40 to $100 a month and $2 to $4 a night for officers, depending on their rank.

Twenty-one dollar a month draftees, seeking a week-end relief from camp life, the chance of a private shower and a nonarmy meal, are given the same rates. They may also, for a 40 cent fee, use the hotel's outdoor swimming pool in the evening, and for 55 cents a person, dance to a name band on the roof garden.

Few Girls in Town.

For the draftee it's almost impossible to dance. The town's population of 6,486 has been swelled by 1,500, which still leaves very few girls to go around.

A few of the draftees have met some of the local daughters. The churches encourage attendance, and are usually well filled Sunday mornings with soldiers, many of whom are taken home to dinner by some of the families.

There is one juke joint where for 10 cents a waltz the dance minded draftee can swing it with one of 20 hostesses. There are five crowded movie houses where there had been two, but most of the boys prefer to sit in cafés [six new ones are operating] and drink 4 per cent beer. This county, Palo Pinto, is dry, like most of Texas, but permits the sale of beer.

Col. H. S. Blesse, a Chicagoan, commanding officer of the 1,000 bed hospital, reported the camp health in good shape. The hospitalization rate is 3 per cent, mostly due to respiratory cases.

PAY DAY SPURS CELEBRATION BY 65,000 SOLDIERS

Alexandria, La., July 4 [Special].—Approximately 65,000 troops from the Great Lakes states in the Alexandria area observed Independence day with almost a third of them scattered over the countryside on leave or furlough. The others spent the day downtown or at camp programs.

The holiday followed pay day, and more than 3 million dollars was jingling in the pockets of the soldiers. More than 13,000 troops set out for distant points for the week-end on three day passes. Furlough jaunts included mass movement of 11,000 to points on the gulf coast from New Orleans to Mobile. Buses were chartered for some trips and two special trains left for the north, carrying more than 1,000 men to Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota. Fifteen day furloughs permitted visits with families at home.

Highway traffic was heavy and police patroled the area.

Premier Visits Former U. S. Chief Justice in Canada

ASKS U. S. TO AID STALIN AND ALL HIS DEMOCRATS

Robert Minor of New York City, acting secretary of the communist party in the United States, urged yesterday at a communist picnic in Pilsen park that the United States join soviet Russia and England in the encirclement of Nazi Germany. He pictured soviet Russia as the champion of democracy for the last 19 years and said the defeat of Russia would mean a Nazi enslavement of the world. Police said that between 1,500 and 2,000 persons visited the park.

CITE BULLITT'S WORDS: U. S. 200% AGAINST RUSSIA

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 4.—Editorial writers here are asking whether the American people as a whole will follow the lead of the Churchill and Roosevelt administrations in throwing themselves into the arms of Josef Stalin.

Parisian newspapers today recalled Fernand de Brinon's recent statement to American correspondents that in the early 1930's former Ambassador William C. Bullitt told him that the Americans were 100 per cent for France as against Germany, but were 200 per cent against Russia, which then was France's ally.

"Has public opinion in the United States changed since that time?" the entire press asked.

Return Ashes of Japanese to U. S. as Good Will Act

Los Angeles, Cal., July 4 (AP).—The ashes of George Yamaji, former member of the Japanese parliament, were placed in an urn at the new Koyasan temple here today in a gesture of good will toward the United States. Yamaji died two months ago in New Orleans. The body was taken to Japan for cremation. The ashes then were returned here.

ALASKA IS SAFE FROM INVASION, EXPLORER SAYS

San Francisco, Cal., July 4 (AP).—Any invasion of Alaska with an idea of attacking the United States or Canada is doomed before it starts, says Father Bernard Hubbard.

Father Hubbard.

The famed "glacier priest," who has explored the arctic for 14 years, is leaving Monday on a coast guard cutter to help the United States army organize Alaskan defenses.

"Alaska can't be invaded in any practical way," he said in an interview. "The fellow who's there can hold it—with the use of a little intelligence."

He pointed out that if, for example, Japan conquered Alaska it would be almost ludicrous for the Japanese to use that frozen land as a base for operations against Canada or the United States because a steady stream of supplies would have to be guaranteed any invading force.

REPORT FATHER COUGHLIN TO HIT AMERICA FIRST

New York, July 4 [Special].—The forthcoming edition of Father Coughlin's weekly Social Justice will reveal the parting of company between Father Coughlin and the America First committee.

In an editorial Father Coughlin will castigate Gen. Robert E. Wood, head of the America First committee. It was learned that while Father Coughlin's Christian Front party line will be to deride America First leaders and attempt to link them to communism, a sympathetic attitude will be built up for Charles A. Lindbergh.

The split between the Coughlinites and the America First committee has been due to the public rejection of Christian Front support by the Wood forces.

ASSERTS LEGION STILL OPPOSED TO COMMUNISM

Kansas City, Kas., July 4 (AP).—Germany's war with Russia has not changed the American Legion's stand against communism, Milo J. Warner, national commander said tonight in a speech at an Independence day celebration.

"The invasion of Russia by Germany forms an occasion for the United States to increase and speed her aid to Great Britain," he asserted, adding that help to Russia should come only after the United States had fulfilled all its promises to England.

"When we can produce more than that, we can take the time to consider if there is a better use for them [munitions] than in the hands of our own forces."

Americans in Rome Enjoy 4th Despite War Isolation

ROME, July 4.—The American colony celebrated July Fourth under a cloud of isolation in a once friendly country. This, however, did not interfere with the traditional garden party at the residence of Ambassador William Phillips. All Americans in Rome and members of the South American diplomatic corps were invited.

A record crowd attended the patriotic service held this morning by the Rev. H. Gruber Woolf in St. Paul's American church despite the fact that the church has been called "a hot bed of spies."

A MESSAGE OF FEAR.

What the American people expected to hear from their President yesterday was a message of courage, fortitude, and self-confidence. What they got was a message of fear.

One hundred and sixty-five years ago the representatives of 13 small and weak colonies had dared to declare themselves free of their allegiance to the British crown. The War of Independence was already in progress. There was internal dissension within each of the colonies and between the colonies. There were grave difficulties in raising an army, holding it in the field, and keeping it supplied. The enemy was immensely stronger in man power, in money, in ships, in all the material means of prosecuting war.

And yet the men of Philadelphia did not yield to fear then or ever, and their courage won its reward in the end. The President chose to pass over the day's text of courage. We cannot, he said, save freedom in our own midst, in our own land, if all around us our neighbor nations have lost their freedom. And again: "It is, indeed, a fallacy based on no logic for any Americans to suggest that the rule of force can defeat human freedom in all other parts of the world and allow it to survive in the United States alone."

These statements of his are a perversion of history. If July 4 means anything, it means that we can do just the things Mr. Roosevelt says we can't. We did obtain independence and did establish a nation dedicated to freedom in a world in which absolutism and oppression were the norms. From that day to this much of the world has never known anything else, but ours has been an independent and a free land.

Mr. Roosevelt has welcomed Stalin as an ally in his war for freedom. Years ago the same Roosevelt, who now says that we can't live in a world of aggressive tyrannies, gave recognition to Stalin's régime, tho it was as oppressive, as bloodthirsty, and as ambitious for world dominion as any which ever existed, not excluding Hitler's. The same Mr. Roosevelt, who now trembles for liberty in our neighboring countries, allowed and even encouraged the Mexican tyranny to despoil not only the citizens of Mexico but our own citizens as well. The Mr. Roosevelt who now talks about the dangers of sabotage is the same Roosevelt who for eight years did not raise a finger against the communists in this country who were organizing sabotage. On the contrary, he and those around him gave every encouragement to these men of violence to recruit and discipline a following.

In 1776 we were not yet a united nation. Today we are the leading nation of the world, with by far the largest industrial plant, by far the most productive agricultural resources, and with a population almost twice as large as that of any nation in Europe which threatens us. We are a thousand times better situated in the troubled world of today than we were in the troubled world of 1776, and yet Mr. Roosevelt tells us that we must tremble and grow pale. If the men of Philadelphia had possessed no more courage than was revealed in yesterday's address there would be no United States today.

WHAT FREEDOM OF THE SEAS?

Mrs. Roosevelt says that Congressman Fish's questionnaire on the war was oversimplified. He asked his constituents: "Shall the United States enter the war?" or "Shall the United States stay out of the war?" Returns thus far indicate that 90 per cent of his constituents are opposed to United States involvement in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt are in Mr. Fish's congressional district in New York. Mrs. Roosevelt would have phrased the question differently, she says. One of her questions would ask if the people thought the United States should accept restrictions upon its trade or upon its traditional stand for freedom of the seas. That would imply that we have been insisting upon the freedom of the seas.

Mr. Roosevelt buried freedom of the seas in his neutrality law. He then thought it was a dangerous policy. Mr. Wilson had made a point of it in the other war. Mr. Roosevelt said that led to incidents and the incidents led to war. He put restrictions on trade and embargoes on travel. True, Mr. Roosevelt recently found a case for freedom of the seas in the sinking of the Robin Moor bound for a belligerent port with war supplies. He was looking for an incident that would lead to war.

STALIN IN DEFEAT.

Stalin executed the old bolshevists whom he accused of entering into agreement with Hitler. He entered into that agreement. He liquidated all political opposition. Then he turned on the army command. The slaughter of officers in the Red army has never been completely revealed. It led off with the murder of the commander in chief and his marshals. Then it went into the lower ranks. Reliable reports put the toll at thousands and said that few officers of higher rank than that of major survived. Stalin may wish he had those officers now.

A creeping terror paralyzed the victims who knew they were next on the list of dead. They saw friends killed and lacked the courage to strike back. They were powerful men, or should have been. They included the commanders of the Kremlin guards and the military schools, the head of the army and the head of the GPU, the naval commanders, and the old revolutionaries. Some of them swore their own lives away. Of others that was not required. They were shot without ceremony.

Now the man who did this is threatened by the consequences of his own intrigues. Will he survive the reverses he has brought upon the country? Despots need success. They cannot stand the shattering of the forces by which they existed. Stalin in defeat may soon be Stalin in flight pursued by vengeful men. Another revolution might then be on his heels. Russia might then continue to fight the German invader, but it might be another Russia, purged of its own tyranny.

THE HANDBOOK BILL.

As a parting gift on adjournment day the legislature laid in Gov. Green's lap a bill to legalize and license gambling houses taking bets on horse races. Whether Chicago and other Illinois communities are to embark on this new variety of noble experiment depends on the governor's action.

The question of legalized gambling isn't settled by the simple proposition that gambling is immoral and therefore should be discouraged. Neither is it settled by the equally simple proposition that people are going to gamble anyway, and the law, therefore, might as well adjust itself to their weakness.

The picture of legalized gambling is no such clear cut study in black and white. It is painted in various tones of gray. The choice is less between good and evil than between two evils. Which is the worse is largely a matter of opinion, but the changes that would be wrought by legalization would be profound in both the political and the economic fields.

Illicit gambling is a principal source of political corruption. In municipal government it is probably the greatest source. It puts police and politicians in the pay of lawbreakers. It is argued that legalization of gambling will remove the necessity for this corruption.

This argument was used by a Reno man some years ago in explaining to a Tribune reporter why, after opposing legalized gambling for years, he had finally backed such a proposal. "I got tired of going down to Carson City and seeing half the legislators owned by the Reno gamblers," he explained.

The legislators may have been purified by that action, but at the time he spoke the owners of the largest legal gambling house in Reno were in the United States courts on the charge—of which they were later convicted—of defrauding people in a fake wire tapping scheme. Those who expect legalization of gambling to reduce political corruption should give some attention to the type of men whom such a measure will set up in a legal business.

Among those whose business would be legalized in Chicago are the members of the Nitti gang. Handbooks and night club clip joints are among the least objectionable of their activities.

Following prohibition repeal the speakeasy operators became legitimate tavern keepers overnight. The legalization of their business did not end their practice of paying bribes to police and politicians for various extralegal privileges. It is not likely that if the present handbook operators get licenses to operate legally they are going to lose their interest in politics overnight. Having come into a soft thing, they will not risk losing it if that risk can be insured against by a slush fund at Springfield. After New York legalized handbook betting at race tracks an active and well heeled bookie lobby operated at Albany to delay for years adoption of the pari-mutuel betting that eventually put the bookies out of business.

While legalization of handbooks would undoubtedly remove a primary source of political corruption, it would just as surely open the way to new corruption, designed to hold the privileges granted and obtain extensions of those privileges. The latter might be a lesser evil, which is about the best that can be said for it.

Economists frown on gambling, not on moral grounds but because it is wasteful. It produces no wealth, it diverts time from useful occupations, and diverts money from useful trade. Handbook gambling has a particularly bad record as a time waster because it is carried on during the working day.

It is true that people will gamble even if it is illegal to do so. But it is equally true that they will gamble more if gambling houses are made easily accessible to them and are rendered semi-respectable by legal fiat. The more money people spend in handbooks the less they have to spend at the grocery or to put in savings accounts.

It is argued that legalizing handbooks would provide an important source of local revenue. So would licensing of slot machines. Any human frailty can be made to yield public revenue, if you want that kind of revenue.

Of all the arguments offered for legalized gambling the "poor man" talk is the shabbiest. It is argued that since people who can afford to go to a race track can make legal bets there the people who cannot afford to go to the track should be allowed to make legal bets with the corner bookie. The people who advance this argument do not seem to recognize that the dilemma could be solved as easily by forbidding gambling at the tracks as by legalizing it in the handbooks. Considering what has been going on at race tracks recently, in this and other states, that might not be a bad idea.

GIVING THE CUSTOMER WHAT HE WANTS.

The three streamlined coach trains placed on the Chicago-Miami run by railroads running out of this city were intended originally to operate only during the winter tourist season. They have done so well that the service has been placed on a year-round basis. Travel on the roads concerned increased 60 per cent as a result of the installation of the streamliners.

This story of passenger traffic increases obtained by giving modern service is getting to be an old one, but it cannot be repeated too often. The railroads that have tried it are finding that there is a tidy profit in giving the customer what he wants. That money making principle has been recognized for a good many years in most lines of business.

Into the Past Again.

Some 6,000 Confederate soldiers are buried in Oak Woods cemetery and a large monument marks their graves, erected and dedicated by the Southern Society of Chicago and unveiled on Memorial day, 1895. Older members of the Dandy First, now the 131st Illinois infantry, that recently left its old quarters in the First armory at 16th and Michigan, remember the occasion well.

The Southern Society wanted a squad from the Dandy First to fire a salute at the dedication ceremonies. Col. Henry L. Turner, commanding officer, did not have authority to order out a squad for the purpose, so he asked for volunteers. Every officer and enlisted man volunteered, including the 72 piece band. As the Dandy First left Oak Woods after the ceremonies, to go to the I. C. station, it encountered the funeral procession of Secretary of State Walter Q. Gresham, on the way to Oak Woods. It was headed by President Grover Cleveland and his cabinet. The regiment was halted and presented arms as the procession passed.

• • •

That afternoon the Dandy First participated in the Memorial day parade, and at 7 o'clock that evening there was a reception and regimental review at the armory in honor of distinguished guests who had attended the ceremonies for the Confederate soldiers at the cemetery. Gen. Joe Wheeler was there, and Gen. Longstreet, too, and most of the southern governors, including Gov. Akinson of Tennessee, who had on his staff a young lieutenant in the Tennessee National Guard named Cordell Hull.

Boy! My bonnet and stick! This remembering leaves me all tuckered out.

SEPARATE AIR FORCE.

[Peoria Journal Transcript.]

The present controversy raging over whether or not this country should establish a separate air defense arm of the federal government is either a most important controversy or a very trivial one.

It is obvious to even the most casual and uninformed observer of military affairs that control of the air is today a necessity for the waging of a successful war. That has been proven over in England. The fact that Hitler has not been able to control the air over the British Isles has spared the islands from invasion. All informed military observers, no matter which their prejudice or their bias may be, agree upon this fact. Under such circumstances, the importance of aviation is not at issue either in this country or in any other nation that is thinking in 1941 speed.

Not long after the last World war, agitation for a separate air arm began. It was based upon the fact that, at that time, many of the military mossbacks in control of the army and many of the grand old men of the navy were far from being convinced that aviation, perhaps we should say air defense, could ever be so important from the standpoint of war making. Gen. Billy Mitchell and a few other army and navy officers of vision contended, vehemently, that what has now been demonstrated to be a fact should then have been recognized truth. But there is no reason for a separate air arm now because the army and the navy are not sufficiently sold on airplanes. They are.

The only valid argument for a separate air arm today is the possibility that army and navy chiefs are not sufficiently versed in the technical aspects of aviation to give it proper support. We fancy there is no question about their desiring to give such support, assuming ability to do so.

There are many reasons for viewing a separate air army with some skepticism. Already, as in the case of World war No. 1, there are manifest competitions between the various procurement divisions of the army and the navy and between the army and the navy themselves. This will be further complicated if an independent and autonomous air department were set up with a cabinet status. Perhaps it might be better to shake up the army and navy commands—something that already is said to be under way—to assure the nation that the men at the top will be sympathetic to aviation and knowledgeable enough to support it.

A PROPHET VINDICATED.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

At least, nobody can say now that Hitler is a false prophet. He is the fellow who predicted, as long ago as Jan. 30, 1937: "Any treaty links between Germany and present day bolshevist Russia would be without any value whatever."

A pilot boat, loaded to the guards with licensed pilots, has just gone aground in San Francisco harbor. After two thousand years, man is still looking for the answer to the old Roman question, "Quis custodiet custodes"—who'll take care of the caretakers?

THE COLON AS A SOURCE OF INFECTION.

WHEN the physician runs out of organs to blame for any and all ailments, he can always fall back on the colon. Germs flourish therein all the time and there is no such thing as a bowel that is clean.

As we know, this apparatus is the general reservoir for food débris, after the small intestine has extracted all the nutriment possible. Nevertheless, considerable absorption will occur along this sizable tube and we must not forget that it may dispatch toxins to the blood stream. For example, the lymph tributaries, which reach the kidney and bladder from the digestive canal, may convey infection to these structures.

Furthermore, we cannot deny the possibility that with the area teeming with streptococci, the deleterious substances which they manufacture may keep the patient substantially below par. Whatever may be the cause of rheumatism—allergy or bacteria—any drop in resistance may allow the forces of disease to gain the upper hand.

In arthritis, particularly, there is every reason to believe that the condition is made worse by the presence of any type of toxemia. In like manner, a kidney irritation or inflammation within the gall bladder may be accentuated markedly should the sinuses, tonsils, teeth, or the digestive tract become loaded with microbes.

A study of the flora of the lower bowel is intriguing. Of course, we find harmless organisms in great abundance, but the more pernicious forms will answer the roll call with fair frequency. On occasions, they will be present in generous numbers. Whatever absorption is taking place adds some of their poisons to the burden of the circulation.

In a recent report of a series of arthritics, tender colons were discovered in more than 60 per cent. In addition, a high percentage of staphylococci or streptococci showed upon bacteriological examination.

What can be done? We know that laxatives will not help. The best drug seemed to be sodium ricinoleate, which may be given by mouth or via enemas. Other measures include vaccines and combating constipation. Attacking these unwelcome invaders in this manner has produced, in many cases, not only favorable but striking results.

In the event that noxious bacteria are not discovered in the discharges, we will be obliged to turn our attention elsewhere and continue our hunt for the source of the trouble. But so much improvement has followed this plan, not only in the abatement of symptoms but in arresting the progress of the disease, that a laboratory check of the stools should not be overlooked in an effort to aid these sufferers.

How much these "bugs" have to do with the development of ulcerative lesions within the large intestine is not clear, but we know enough about their habits and their destructive characteristics to realize that if they thrive in profusion, we are allowing a hazardous situation to exist. In one instance, what appeared to be an irritable heart, with irregularity and increasing rapidity of rhythm, quieted down completely with irrigations and antiseptics applied to the colon.

It goes without saying that diet will play an important rôle and the value of acidophilus milk must not be forgotten. A good grade of buttermilk, used over a period of several weeks, may carry enough lactic acid organisms into the more dependent parts of the alimentary tract to establish an environment which will prevent dangerous varieties from multiplying.

HEEL SPURS.

R. M. writes: Seven years ago I developed a spur on my right heel. Now I have one coming on my left. What causes these pesky things?

REPLY.

They are manifestations of arthritis and may occur almost anywhere on the skeleton—along the spine, on the heel bones, etc. Treatment is directed against this universal malady of which we are all victims to a greater or lesser extent.

NO PEP.

D. O. writes: Can low blood pressure cause a person to be drowsy all the time, regardless of the amount of sleep obtained?

REPLY.

This is a common symptom. A figurative cat o' nine tails may need to be applied to the circulation. In the absence of some organic weakness, forcing yourself to exercise is the answer.

IN THE RAGWEED SEASON.

Chicago, June 30.—My husband is a hay fever sufferer as are thousands of others here in Chicago. On my daily shopping trips I see so much ragweed that I shudder at the pain and discomfort it will bring to so many people. Those more fortunate may travel, while those who cannot get away must suffer weeks of illness.

Why doesn't the city hire men who have difficulty getting a job because of slight physical disability or age to cut down this weed. This would not only benefit Chicagoans' health but business, too.

Couldn't THE TRIBUNE print pictures of this "scourge", along with articles urging the school children to destroy the weed? This could be a sort of "Keep Chicago Healthy" campaign. Photos could be taken to show the "before and after" picture. The benefits would be tenfold and you will have the blessing of a multitude of people.

MRS. L. J. T.

THERE'S THE LONELY CLUB.

Chicago, June 26.—We are wondering if there is some kind of club in Chicago for spinsters, bachelors, widows, widowers, and divorcées between the ages of 35 and 50!

Why doesn't some one start just such a club, charge a membership fee and dues so much each year [not too much]. In order to join the club have an application blank with certain qualifications to become members. In this way all would be of good character.

In the summer time simply get up supper picnics, lake cruises, hikes, horseback riding, fishing, tennis, golf, and dancing. In winter time such as theater and movies, dinner dancing, card games, skating, and sleigh riding, and perhaps plays. I am sure every one would have a very enjoyable time doing some of these things.

We are a stenographer, nurse, teacher, beauty culturist, switchboard operator and saleslady. Are there other people [between these ages] interested in forming a club of this kind? A thought—could it "Loyal American club" and live up to the name. SIX GROUP.

WORKING FOR THEIR BRITAIN.

Evanston, Ill., June 30.—To Anne K. Freeman, who wrote about "London Woman in Wartime," I want to say that, while we are undoubtedly victims of much propaganda, and while there are lazy women everywhere in the world, for every woman such as is pictured in that letter there are a hundred women in England and Scotland who are working feverishly, night and day, at war work, with no thought for the pay or for anything other than "doing their bit" for their loved Britain."

My cousins in Britain—girls in their twenties—are working like mad at canteen work, driving ambulances during a blitz, sewing, preserving, canning, etc. I think their desire to help is more representative of the national spirit than this poor woman in your letter.

But in spite of all the above, I agree we are being "duped" in this country by poisonous propaganda. That's war.

MARY LEE MOODY.

DANGERS IN JOHNSON PLAN.

Chicago, July 2. — The question regarding Superintendent Johnson's proposal to release high school students, with school credit, for instruction in the various churches is not whether we want more religion, but whether we want religion on public school time. There are inherent dangers in the plan—to academic standards in the schools on one hand, and to freedom of worship on the other.

A scramble to reach our children in the one place where they are required by law to spend a considerable portion of their time cannot make up for our failures in the home, in the church, and in the community. To do so would only reduce the time and efficiency of the school to which we are delegating more and more of the responsibilities of the home and the community, and, in our hysteria, of the church as well. We dare not hamper the work of the school at a time when we are demanding more and more from it.

If the purpose of the proposed program is character building and not sectarianism, who shall say that the public school is not making a genuine contribution to society? No relationship outside the home means so much to children and youth as the association with teachers of character and ideals. It is here that the public school may fail. It is in the selection of teachers and administrators that it should be most concerned.

To overcome the lack of reality in its teaching, which lack has lowered the spirituality of many who are the parents of today's children, the church should arouse itself from its lethargy and in the strength which it has to use, should renew its association with the homes of the communities and thus establish meaningful individual church relationships. The association which comes from the proposed plan will always be a student-school relationship—and an indirect relationship at that.

FRANKNESS FROM ARKANSAS.

Little Rock, Ark., June 30.—Sure, "Jim Crow law" is not democracy. All this shouting to high heaven about world-wide democracy, particularly in the south, is pure bunk. We neither believe in it nor practice it. For 75 years we have resorted to every possible subterfuge under our constitution to defeat democracy in the south, such as many now advocate for the whole world.

Jim Crow law represents racial discrimination, and no honest person can doubt that; but it represents a fixed determination in the south to maintain white supremacy at whatever cost.

M. A. MATLOCK.

TULIPS.

Western Springs, Ill., June 30.—Dr. Crane's question in this morning's paper on various scenic wonders in the United States contains an inaccuracy.

Many people think, "Holland" tulips [by that I assume Dr. Crane means the type of tulip grown in Holland] are found in commercial quantities only in Michigan.

Actually, the tulip plantings in Michigan last year were largely of English grown bulbs. More important, in Oregon, where the foundation tulip stocks actually came from Holland, will be found about 25 to 30 times as many tulips as will be found in Michigan, some 80,000,000.

In fact, the tulip plantings in Oregon today are probably more extensive than they are in Holland, on the European continent, where the fields have been ploughed up to plant vegetable crops.

RENTAL PAYMENTS.

Chicago, July 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last November I rented an apartment in which I now live. When renting I rented from Mrs. H. I continued paying rent to Mrs. H. until last month when Mr. H. demanded in writing that I pay him the rent.

1. I paid him the rent, and then Mrs. H. gave me a five day notice to vacate premises. There is no divorce involved.

2. As I understand it there is joint tenancy, therefore either Mr. or Mrs. H. is entitled to the rent. I have now been notified by Mrs. H.'s lawyer I must appear in court.

3. I cannot see where I have committed any wrong.

4. Am I in the wrong and if not will you please tell me who to pay the rent to? Mr. and Mrs. H. are living together in the same building I rent in. A. I.

1. In general, the law expects a tenant to pay rent to the landlord with whom he signed the lease, but where a rival claimant appears it is often advisable for the tenant to offer to deposit the money in a separate bank account until the dispute has been settled.

2. As we understand it you agreed to pay the rent to the wife. The fact that the title is in joint tenancy and that you have paid to some other person other than the wife does not give you a defense to the liability on your agreement.

3. See 2.

4. Yes, in the sense that we would consider it unwise for you to have paid to a person other than the landlord named in your lease.

Annie Lawrie Ryerson Makes Debut Tonight

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE swimming pool at the Onwentsia club will be bordered with little tables tonight where young guests will dine before Miss Annie Lawrie Ryerson's debut party. The Joseph T. Ryersons have invited some of their own friends to join the party later for dancing on an outdoor platform screened with trees. Two of Miss Ryerson's Vassar classmates, Miss Caroline Seelye of Philadelphia, and Miss Frances Fisse of St. Louis, are here for the party.

The debutante's older sister, Mary, will be among the guests, but Ellen, the baby of the family, will miss the festivities. She has gone to Estes Park to spend five or six weeks on a ranch before going on to California, where the Ryersons will open their Santa Barbara home for Labor day. About the 21st of this month Miss Mary will go to a ranch near Santa Fe en route to California to join her mother and younger sister. Miss Annie Lawrie, too, will have a western holiday early in August before setting out for Northeast Harbor in Maine.

Miss Ruddy Hale Giving Luncheon for Group of Buds.

It was just a year ago tomorrow that Miss Ruddy Hale was introduced to society, and tomorrow, in the garden of the Winnetka home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hale, where she bowed at a dinner-dance, Miss Hale and Miss Nathalie Bell are giving a buffet luncheon for some of this year's debs. Their especial guests will be Miss Lee Cudahy, Miss Eleanor Cochran, Miss Ryerson, Miss Mary Cornelia Aldis, and Miss Bessie Cowles. Miss Bell also was a debutante of last season.

A brand new name for the debutante list of the current season is that of Miss Ann David Johnson. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stanley Johnson, will give a tea for her at their Hubbard Woods home on Friday, Sept. 5, bringing the total number of debut parties for that busy day to three, with four buds to be introduced.

Miss Johnson was graduated from the North Shore Country Day school a year ago and has just completed her first year at Pine Manor. She and her parents will go to South Carolina later this month for a short holiday.

Miss Kathleen Lord, Mrs. Russell Lord's younger daughter, is not to have a formal debut. Miss Lord was graduated from Dobbs Ferry a year or two ago and she was on the tentative list for this season. Mrs. and Miss Lord again are at the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest for the summer. They spent last winter in South America.

Eunice Gilbert McIntosh's Troth Being Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Heyn are entertaining at a family party at their home in Dundee this afternoon to celebrate the engagement of their niece, Miss Eunice Gilbert McIntosh, to Simon Newcomb Whitney of New York and Washington. It is being announced today by Miss McIntosh's mother, Mrs. Walter Gilbert McIntosh of Wilmette. Mr. Whitney, who is here for the party, is the son of Mrs. Edward Baldwin Whitney of New Haven, Conn., and Winter Park, Fla.

The wedding will take place on Aug. 23, and Mr. Whitney and his bride will make their home in Washington, where he is in the Export Control office. Miss McIntosh attended Northwestern university. Mr. Whitney is a graduate of Yale.

Mrs. Arthur Collson Tobin of Woodlawn avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Eleanore, to Francis L. Kenney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenney of Baltimore, Md. Miss Tobin was graduated from the Baldwin school and from Bryn Mawr college. Mr. Kenney, a graduate of Duquesne university and the University of Maryland law school, is here this week-end from Youngstown, O., where he is in business.

The engagement of Miss Patricia Ann Patterson to Charles Robinson Jacobs Jr. was announced yesterday by her mother, Mrs. William H. Riddle Jr. of Highland Park.

Miss Patterson attended Northwestern university and Bennington college. This summer she is returning to Vermont to study at the Bennington school of the arts. Mr. Jacobs, the son the Mrs. Jacobs of Winnetka and the late Mrs. Jacobs, attended the North Shore Country Day school and the Tome school in Maryland before entering the University of Virginia. He has enlisted in the United States Coast Guard reserve.

Visitors from Nebraska Attending Ravinia Concert.

There will be a number of guests from Omaha, Neb., in the Charles H. Morses' box at the concert in Ravinia park tonight. Mr. and Mrs. Morse have given their box to their daughter and son-in-law, the William S. Covingtons, of Omaha, who will have among their guests the Ralph Campbells and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gaines of the Nebraska city. The Covingtons are spending the summer in Lake Forest.

Instead of going to Bar Harbor, Me., for the summer as she usually does, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen is at the Bowen Country club, the Hull House camp west of Waukegan. She sold her home, Baymeath, at Hull's Cove on Mount Desert last year, after spending 47 summers there with her large family.

Mrs. A. L. H. Dickson and her daughter, Miss Nancy Dickson, have arrived from California to spend the summer with Mrs. Dickson's aunt, Mrs. Arthur Aldis, in Lake Forest.

Ending a week-end that is filled with gayety, the Belfry Players will open in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" tomorrow night in Williams Bay, on Geneva Lake, Wis. The play will run for the following seven nights.

Delavan Residents to Have 'Wayside Chapel.'

The picturesque old Gothic Christ Episcopal church at Delavan, Wis., will be opened as a "Wayside Chapel" for summer visitors to the lake region with a dedicatory service on the evening of July 15. All of the churches of Delavan are coöperating on the project, which has the interest of a number of Chicagoans who have summer homes at Delavan Lake.

It was Mrs. Elmer T. Stevens who had the idea and formulated the plan. Mrs. Anson Cameron, Dr. and Mrs. Dan U. Cameron, the George W. Borgs, the George G. Olmsteds, Mr. and Mrs. Burr W. Robbins, and the William Rufus Abbotts are some of those who are lending their support.

A Close Finish at Arlington Lifts These Young Folk from Their Seats

A close and exciting race at the Arlington Park track yesterday kept these members of the smart young set from returning to their seats. The photographer caught them as they stood on the steps of the Post and Paddock club. Left to right are Charles Hazard, Miss Dudley Winston and her guest, Miss Jean MacColl, Miss Lana Jelke, Arthur Cummings, and Edward Cummings. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

WHAT F. D. R. SAID

In a speech to the nations of the western hemisphere on Oct. 12, 1940, President Roosevelt said:

"The clear facts have been stated over and over again. This country wants no war with any nation. This hemisphere wants no war with any nation. The American republics are determined to work in unity for peace just as we work in unity to defend ourselves from attack.

"We arm to defend ourselves. The strongest reason for this is that it is the strongest guarantee for peace."

Gown and Robe Duets Are Ideal for Travelers

BY REA SEEGER.

The best traveling companions for any trip consist of duet of neat nightgown and tailored robe with three-quarter length sleeves. There are dark shades, navy and wine, of smooth novelty silk material that packs with the minimum of wrinkling, a stunning dull white combine and an aqua blue. The dark doubles are particularly handsome because the nightgown bodice and shoulder straps are piped in cool white as are the lapels, cuffs of the sleeves and the side pockets of the robe. What does startle the veteran shopper is the very modest price [around ten dollars for the two pieces] . . . you couldn't find a better buy anywhere!

Separate travel robes also come in unobtrusive wine and navy blues, but if you crave dots you'll select the affairs that are double—white dotted blue for the outside, white dotted red for the inside.

Should you decide upon an ensemble there are simply cut and tailored white nightgowns or two piece sleeping pajamas to make a team. Dotted and double silk robes have a definite princess line and long sleeve with a bell shape.

While you're snooping around this same showing of well designed travel robes, you'll probably find the excitement over a new house coat contagious. It's called a "brunch" coat. It's short, ending at the right level below the knee; it's cut with short sleeves, a soft vee neckline bodice and boasts a tie belt. The material is a huge floral print against effective contrast backgrounds like blue, rust, and so on. The name is ideal for such a modestly priced model [round four dollars] for it is a coat to wear from breakfast right thru to lunch while you mend, sort the stuff for the cleaners, launder the hosiery, and do other typical feminine chores.

Married in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Lagerquist of Foster avenue announce the marriage on June 6 of their daughter, Audrey, to Hugh Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilson of the Kenwood hotel.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, July 4.—The Warners' Independence day gift, "Sergeant York," is a fine, exciting, human film. I hate to curse it with another adjective which is believed to have no box-office value—but it is also dignified. Gary Cooper is excellent, as always; Margaret Wycherly, who played so many years on Broadway as Ma Lester, is splendid as Ma York, and young Joan Leslie, as Coop's girl, has come a long way since her debut in "High Sierra." . . . The Leslie girl is another Cinderella. Altho she has been around in night clubs for years as a child entertainer, she is probably the least sophisticated youngster in Hollywood. She's headed for important money, but isn't getting it yet, and lives modestly with her family. So modestly, in fact, that last week she was slated for her first "home" interview with a fan mag writer, and the studio was so worried about her making a good impression that it sent a truckload of furniture over from the prop department to make the house look right.

For the Dietrich-Raft-Robinson "Manpower" Warners engaged one Doris Wilson, Chicago waitress, as technical adviser on hash-house slang. Here's some of the material she supplied: Angels on horseback, oysters fricasseed; grapes of wrath in a sports jacket, a bottle of sherry; cackleberries and grunts, eggs and bacon; one on the city, a glass of water; smear one, toasted cheese sandwich; bird's nest, fruit pudding; gravel train, sugar bowl.

"Kathleen," Shirley Temple's long-awaited first film at Metro, should get going within a fortnight, with Norman Taurog, the kid tamer, directing. . . John Ford and Gene Markey, both United States naval reserve lieutenant commanders, expect to be called to duty any time now. . . . Exhibitors are buying space in the local trades to air their squawks about the flock of reissues that have been announced. . . Cary Grant is expected to star at Columbia in a film version of Louis Bromfield's new novel, "Wild Is the River." . . . "A Yank in the RAF," all but completed, will have $100,000 more spent on it in additional air scenes. . . Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom will be Bob Hope's bodyguard in "Louisiana Purchase." . . . Paramount's college musical mystery, "Sing a Song of Homicide," is now called "Sweater Girl." June Preisser will be one of the exhibits. . . . Gregory La Cava, who thought he might not do another picture this year because of the surtax, will make another Irene Dunne starrer for Universal.

Buddy de Sylva will ask Ethel Barrymore to test for the rôle of Pilar in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." . . . Louis Bromfield's scenario for the Hemingway yarn will build up two characters who were only offstage in the novel, the Russian who taught Jordan how to dynamite bridges, and the Russian general. . . And another title change: Laurel and Hardy's new screen comedy, announced as "Forward March," is now "Great Guns." . . . How about "At Ease, Men," for another army comedy?

Sally to Reveal Party Guests in Sunday's Paper

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Tomorrow's good news day for all you boys and girls!

THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE will bring happiness to 100 youngsters who will find their names listed in my column. That means that their letters were good enough to win invitations to our party at the Chicago theater on next Thursday, July 10. On that day, 50 boys and 50 girls will come with me to see Bob Hope in his latest movie, "Caught in the Draft."

I know you're going to enjoy every minute of this comedy about a rookie in the army, so if you wrote me for an invitation, watch for your name in the list of winners. I just learned that Phil Harris and his band will be on that stage.

Of course, I couldn't invite all the youngsters who wrote about this party, but tomorrow I'm going to tell you about the next good time we have scheduled, so that those children who neglected to follow our rules, or whose letters were too late for selection will see what a fine chance they have to try again.

Remember, you don't have to buy or sell anything to win invitations to these parties—all you have to do is prove to me in your letter that you'd enjoy being my guest.

Record Crowd Fills Arlington to Overflowing

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

A veritable sea of automobiles converged upon Arlington Park yesterday afternoon and threw wave upon wave of happy men, women, and children into the capacious grandstands. There wasn't an inch of lawn visible in front of the Jockey club or the grandstands. Occasionally, as if the stands had been squeezed by an invisible pincer, a crowd would trickle across the race track to the infield, where hundreds watched from the hot turf.

Our vote for the four star racing costume of the afternoon went to handsome, white haired Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, who was among the guests in the Silas H. Strawns' box. Over a stunning print dress of mustard toned yellow and white, Mrs. Hoyt wore a tweed coat of the yellow. Her hat was of rough white straw, trimmed with two white carnations to match the flowers pinned to one lapel of the coat. She carried a white fox fur scarf.

Mrs. Strawn was wearing a charming dress of pale and navy blue print, and a navy sailor piled high with pink and blue roses. The Charles W. Dempsters and Mr. and Mrs. H. Belin Voorhees were the Strawns' other guests. In a nearby box sat the Warren Wrights, thru whose courtesy the glamor horse Whirlaway made a brief appearance. Mrs. Wright was patriotic from head to foot in a white suit, red blouse, white sailor hat trimmed with a ribbon band that was partly blue and partly white and red stripes, and sandals of red, white, and blue straps.

Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr. was wearing a frock in pale pink with a darker apron front and a luscious little pale pink straw sailor trimmed with darker pink roses and pale pink valley lilies. The twin of the dress was worn in blue by Mrs. A. Werk Cook, the former Helen Dick, and also by Mrs. John A. McGuire [Carlotta Lagorio], who also chose it in pink.

Mrs. Richard W. Simmons, who is tiny and vivacious, wore a dashing print dress of navy and red jagged lines on white, and a turban to match that was twisted high into a fan shaped coronet to lend height. She and her mother, Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, watched from the upper terrace of the Post and Paddock. Joseph T. Ryerson and his postdeb daughter, Miss Mary, and Henry Isham, Clifford Leonard, and Jack Behr were sitting together in one box. Debutante Annie Lawrie Ryerson, Debutante Lee Cudahy, and her guest, Miss Caroline Seelye of Philadelphia; Bob Coleman and George Nichols watched from another.

An attractive trio seen about was made up of Miss Lana Jelke and Miss Dudley Winston, debutantes of the season, and Miss Winston's house guest, Miss Jean MacColl. Among their constant escorts were Arthur and Edward Cummings, Henry Stimson, and Charles Hazard. Walter Cummings Jr. was with his parents, the senior Mr. and Mrs. Cummings, in the Charles A. McCullochs' box.

Two attractive young women were Mrs. Wyndham Hasler and Mrs. Anthony M. Ryerson, both tall and slim and hatless. Mrs. Hasler wore a colorful dress of striped linen. Mrs. Ryerson wore a dressier frock in a sort of fuchsia-pink sheer silk. She pinned two fresh pink carnations in her hair. Princess Rostislav looked chic in a white dress printed in navy and green and dark glasses framed in white. She carried a wide brimmed sailor hat in her hand. Mrs. Charles L. Peet, the former Narcissa Thorne, also carried her hat, perhaps because it was difficult to keep the wide brimmed crownless piece of black taffeta on her head. Her dress was black, printed in gaily colored flowers, and she wore white linen pumps.

Some of the others in the huge crowds were Mrs. Donald R. McLennan and her daughters, Mrs. John B. Morse and Mrs. Keith Brown; the Carl Leighs, the Stephen V. Hortons, the Thomas E. Wilsons and their son and his wife, the Edward F. Wilsons; Mrs. Charles W. McNear and her daughter, Mrs. Warren Towle Jr., Col. Horatio B. Hackett, the James M. Kempers, and the Richard M. Lamports, who were with the Stuart Shermans. Mr. Lamport made a lively picture in a sporty tweed coat over dark flannels and a vest of yellow sharkskin.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

The National Association of Cleaners and Dyers has your wardrobe's best interest at heart when it warns you not to tuck bottles of nail polish or remover into odd corners of your traveling bag. These liquids if they spill on fabric will usually harm it beyond repair, especially if the material contains cellulose acetate yarn. Bottles of enamel and remover should not only be tightly stoppered but should travel in a protective case.

Speaking of travelers, there's a new wrinkle for the woman who is so fanatically fastidious she wouldn't touch a cake of soap outside her own home. These are small disks of what look like cellophane. The hands are moistened, a disk rubbed between the palms, and in a jiffy you have a lovely, foamy lather that cleans and softens the hand skin in either hard or soft water. The little disks are most attractively packaged in wafer-like boxes in pretty colors. They make an unusual going away gift.

A traveling atomizer is our idea of a truly valuable going away gift. These little containers are absolutely leakproof and also foil evaporation. They're trim little affairs too, in leather cases, that take up practically no room in a bag. The woman who cherishes her fine perfumes will bless you forever if you hand her one as a bon voyage present.

Good Morning!

This starts out in the accepted fashion of sophisticated crook comedy. It develops into a war melodrama of quite some proportions, the while its two principal characters, a pair of deft and alluring jewel thieves, see, to their own surprise, the supposedly callous individuals they are transformed into far worthier folk, interested in the common good and exultantly sacrificing personal ambitions on the altars of patriotism and humanitarianism.

Here's a good yarn, even if you can't believe the half of it. . . . And it's as full of surprises as peanut brittle is of nuts.

"They" [Rosalind Russell and Clark Gable] "meet in Bombay" as "Lady" von Duren and Gerald Meldrick, "representative of Lloyd's, Inc." The sole purpose of each is to relieve the old duchess of Beltravers of her famous jewel known as "Star of Asia." . . . Mr. Gable is well equipped with papers to convince Scotland Yards that he is what he says he is, and milady, aside from oozing oomph and the grand manner, is loaded down with data on the Beltravers line, which she feels—and truly— will afford her an entre into the confidence of the duchess, who is bound to believe that Anya is indeed an intimate of the great ones she claims to know so well.

Both Anya and Gerald locate at the hotel in Bombay where the duchess maintains a suite. To Anya go first honors, for she it is the duchess wines and dines, and she it is before whom the old lady lets down her hair after many a glass of the champagne of which the latter is so fond. Anya it is who unclasps the "Star of Asia" from an aged neck while its owner sleeps, and tucks the jewel into the fragrant warmth of her underpinnings. . . . BUT—you think Mr. Meldrick has been unaware of passing events? Not at all. . . .

I COULD tell you of exciting adventures that finally land the pair in Hong Kong, where Meldrick, a one time British army officer, cashered out of service, uses his knowledge of British soldiering to aid and abet his nefarious plans. . . . As Captain Huston, he turns a clever trick, BUT—finds himself REALLY in charge of a company detailed to evacuate the citizens of an outlying post to save them from Japanese bombing planes. . . . Where is Anya? On the sidelines, frantically trying to aid his escape—for now she and Meldrick are that way about each other and under agreement to work together in the future. But Fate, laughing heartily, takes matters in charge, and, well—you just hang around till the end of the movie!

If I'm any judge, Miss Russell and Mr. Gable had a perfectly swell time making this movie. They complement one another just like ham and eggs, and are competently assisted by an A-1 cast.

This piece has a lot of laughs and excitement, and if time is hanging heavy on your hands, take a run out powder and meet "They" in "Bombay."

See you soon.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

RUNAWAY CAUGHT.

A luggage trolley caught Celia on the shin, half crippling her; she got in people's way just as they got in hers.

But soon there were no more arrivals and the luggage was all on. She saw the man with the green flag and his whistle ready to blow.

And then at last she saw Felicity.

Felicity was where she might normally be expected to be found, occupying the end compartment of one of the Pullmans, hunched in a corner with an illustrated magazine and a box of chocolates for company. Otherwise she was alone. But of course that did not mean that Valentine Quentin was not somewhere around.

Celia pushed past the porter and boarded the train just as the man with the green flag blew his whistle.

"Have you reserved your seat, Miss?"

"I'm with a friend," Celia replied, wondering if that was quite a true statement. It was odds-on that Felicity Stanmore would repudiate her in short order.

The train was pulling out. Well, they wouldn't stop the Continental Express this side of Dover, even if they did have a stowaway on board.

Her ankle was burning something sinful and she clutched at anything that came handy as she tottered down the length of the car.

"O, I beg your pardon . . . O, I'm so sorry!"

She bashed in a fat man's hat for him, tripped over luggage which shouldn't have been in the aisle, anyway, dragged off a woman passenger's stole, and dropped her handbag twice.

Drunk or crazy?

She wasn't interested in what they thought or said about her. Even now, when she had a good hour and a half during which neither Felicity nor anybody else would have a ghost of a chance to turn her from her grim purpose, she couldn't seem to slow down her tempo.

And now she was hanging with both hands to the doorway of the compartment which Felicity occupied in solitary state, holding her poor foot like a dog with an injured paw.

Felicity sprang up defensively—Felicity, as neat and smart as a new pin, the traveler de luxe raised to the 'nth degree, with an orchid spray pinned to her fur coat and her small but elegant assortment of hand luggage expensively occupying a seat to itself.

Just for a few seconds all that seemed to matter was her ankle. She took a lurching hop forward and sprawled sidewise into a seat, and Felicity helped her to right herself with vigor allied to no kindness of heart. She was about as welcome as the cat that came back, and inspired the same feeling of frustration and disgust without the soupçon of remorse that the cat would have got.

"Really, I might have had sense enough to expect this," said Felicity. "Well, now you're here, what do you think you're going to do about it? Tag me all the way to Paris?"

So Paris was her destination.

"Tickets, please."

There was the train conductor, bulking large in the doorway. With what Stevens had given her Celia had about 10 shillings in her possession and, of course, her penny platform ticket.

She closed her eyes, unaware that her face had a green tinge, with an odd-looking white line marking the curve of her mouth.

"A porter knocked my ankle," she murmured, and conveniently fainted.

When she came to, there was an ice-cold compress around her ankle, a pillow under her head and the Pullman steward with a glass on a tray. Felicity's coat was around her and the conductor had disappeared.

"Give me the brandy," said Felicity. "She'll be all right now. When I ring bring us some tea. . . . Darling, you must drink this, even if it chokes you. Gosh, what a turn you gave me! How did it happen?"

"A porter ran into me with a trolley," Celia said faintly. "I wonder if it's broken?"

"I don't think so—but it's terribly swollen. How do you feel?"

"Rotten, thank you. I'm sorry, Felicity. What about my ticket?"

"I told the conductor you'd come to see me off and we didn't notice the time. I paid for your ticket, but it's going to leave me terribly short. You'll have to go back to London third class on a local. Have you got any money at all?"

"A little. Eight or 10 shillings, about."

"We'll find out how much it will cost."

Felicity was wearing her ring, of course. It looked lovely on her slender, long-fingered hand.

"At first I was angry," she said, "but I've got my temper back now, Celia, it's no good your interfering. Val is meeting me in Paris. He flew over and I'm going to stay with a cousin of his until Daddy sees reason. And if he doesn't, then I'll give a false age and we'll be married anyway."

"Why didn't Val travel with you?" Celia asked.

"It would have been too dangerous for him. If Martin Stanmore wanted to be nasty, he could have him up for enticement, or something of that sort. You see, I am going of my own free will. I believe that makes a difference where the law is concerned. How's your ankle feeling now?"

"It doesn't hurt quite so much, but it still hurts. I expect that compress has helped . . . Felicity, can't you see that in everything he does, every single move he makes, Valentine Quentin is a rat?"

"If you're going to talk like that again——"

"Wait a minute. Just try to be patient with me for a little while, Felicity, think hard—can you remember one single time in my life that I have ever lied to you?"

"No, I don't think I can," Felicity admitted with a suggestion of regret.

"Wouldn't you rather know the truth, the whole truth now, before it's too late?"

"It depends upon what you mean by the truth and what you mean by 'too late.'"

"Well, however you look at it, I'll have to tell you. God knows I don't want to. But I promised Martin—I mean, your father . . . Ouch, this ankle of mine! It's starting again—it burns like fire."

"I wish you wouldn't keep on trying to make me feel sorry for you!" Celia ground her teeth and dug her nails into the palms of her hands.

"I wish I didn't either . . . Felicity, as I told you before, I was in love with him and while he was making love to you he was pretending that all that stood in the way of his marrying me was his wife—I mean his former wife. He told me, himself, that she paid his bill at Alanbrook, made him a small allowance, and bought his clothes. That woman he danced with the other night was Shirley Quentin. Your friend, Mrs. Sturgis recognized her and told your father."

"What? That old woman? I don't——"

"You needn't say you don't believe it," Celia said sharply as her ankle gave her another nasty twinge. "And now I'm going to tell you something else that I ought to have told you before—something mighty unpleasant. You know you told me how he had pawned his sacred relics to buy you that ring? Well, for a start off, his mother isn't even dead, because I happen to have met her. She lives in Florence, but occasionally comes to England."

Celia opened the handbag she had lost a few precious minutes to run upstairs for and took out the three pawnbroker's tickets.

"He stole from me, Felicity, to buy your ring. The manageress at Alanbrook found those in a drawer in his desk after I complained that some keepsakes of mine had disappeared. One of them was the little necklace you gave me when I was 16."

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Since that letter about Cornish pasties appeared in this column a few Sundays ago, I've had many a long and interesting letter from other readers who remember, with nostalgia, carrying their own pasties to the mines. One man recalled that as a boy he'd once stolen a pasty full of beef and onions, because his own pasty was the product of a poorer kitchen, and contained only potato.

A woman of Hazel Green, Wisconsin, a lead mining village settled by Cornish folk, wonders now why she never was robbed of her luncheon pasty on her two and one-half mile walk to school teaching when she was a girl. "For a pasty emits an aroma a Cornish man can smell a long way off!" she says.

Other Cornish dishes which this reader describes are saffron bread, scalded cream and plum "sarves" [preserves.]

"Scalded cream is a luxury one doesn't encounter very often now, altho, being a farmer's wife, I generally make some several times a year," she writes. "The cream on a crock of milk is allowed to rise a day and a night, is scalded for several hours on the back of the stove on the second day, put away to cool, and skimmed the third day. . . .

Later in her letter she writes. "When our church societies wish to make a little money, they have a pasty pie dinner, and there always is a good crowd. A pasty pie is simpler to make than a pasty. The lower crust is fitted into a deep pie pan. Potatoes are cut quite fine. Meat and sliced onion, salt, pepper, and rutabagas, if wanted, go into it. The top crust is added, a hole is cut in the top, and the pasty pie is baked in a fairly hot oven for one hour. Butter and one-quarter cup of hot water are poured in the hole on top when the pie is removed from the oven."

"Cook It Outdoors" is the name of a new book written by James Beard, described as "no polite cookbook" by the publisher, M. Barrows & Co.

Fear Control of Children Is Unkind, Futile

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

To attempt thru fear to gain obedience or submission from our children is such a shortsighted, futile policy for parents to adopt! Strange as it may seem, however, there is more of this going on than we like to imagine. Of course it may appear to be a swift and very convenient way for grown-ups to achieve their ends, but it isn't as practical as one might suppose. Some of it is due no doubt to parents ignorance; some to their lack of imagination, or even carelessness or thoughtlessness; and some, in a lesser degree, to a streak of cruelty in the adult makeup.

Fear is a destructive force when set working, whether it be a definite or an intangible fear. Results are always negative, never constructive. Fear may rob a child of self-confidence, of initiative. Fear may make him timid. Fear retards his natural development.

If you stop for a moment and realize what paralyzing effects fear produces in the life of adults, surely you'll hesitate to use fear as a weapon to obtain obedience from your children.

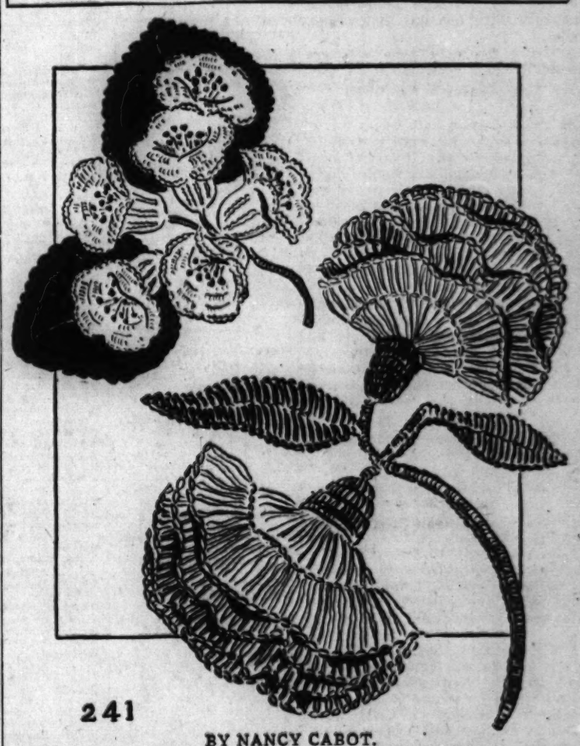
Association of 93ers to Picnic Next Tuesday

The "Association of '93ers." an organization for those who worked at the World's Columbian exposition and those who attended it, will hold its annual picnic Tuesday afternoon and evening in Jackson park, east of Stony Island avenue on 63d street. Mrs. May Gibson, 217 East 20th street, wife of the official photographer for the exposition, is founder and president. She reports that she has notified hundreds of interested persons and expects groups to arrive from all over the country for the outing. Any one who wants to may make a speech and that will mean nearly all of them, if there's time, Mrs. Gibson said.

Crocheted Boutonnieres



BY NANCY CABOT.

To belong to the luxury class which permits a fresh boutonniere daily is bliss, but to be able to crochet floral pieces which, in every way, approach the beauty of the natural flower, except in scent, is a talent which should not be overlooked. Crocheting a bunch of bright red poppies to be worn with a blue cotton suit is a simple matter. The crisp white carnation may be approximated with the use of fine white, mercerized, crochet cotton delicately scented with cologne.

For instructions in crocheting the boutonnieres, No. 241, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

The most disgusted bridge player in New York is a friend of mine who held the West hand, shown below. A few nights ago, in a rubber bridge game, a grand slam was bid against him and, holding about 4½ honor tricks with no fewer than 10 honor cards, he doubled in no uncertain tone, remarking as he did so, "Well, I don't often double slams, but if you make this one against me I'll eat the cards and the table, too!"

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

SOUTH

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
7 spades	Double [final bid]

I was sitting behind South and, since I knew him to be an excellent player, I began to smell a mouse when I heard the remarkable series of bids. There was no stake involved and I strongly suspected that the other three players had put up a job against West since, of course, South would not have dreamed of bidding as he did. To begin, he had no opening two-bid, altho it is true he had only three losers. Next, his jump to seven spades would have been outrageously optimistic unless the deal had been "made to order."

At any rate, West, after making his speech as above, banged down the club king, and from that point on could never get out of hot water. Declarer ruffed and ran off the trump suit until, with one trump left, this situation was reached:

NORTH

EAST

The last trump made West clutch his hair—there was no discard he could make that would not give declarer all the tricks! A heart discard would establish the ace and jack and result in a further squeeze. This was equally true of either a diamond or a club discard. West was inexorably caught in a continuing squeeze in three suits. Thus, declarer's eleven top tricks were converted into a sure thirteen!

Curiously enough, either a top heart or diamond opening lead by West would have killed the squeeze and defeated the contract.

I took the declarer aside and demanded to know whether it had been a "put up job," but the only satisfaction I could get was a wide grin and an absolute refusal to answer.

Universal day—Clear up the scene today before starting out on anything new. Make no plans until tomorrow.

July 4, 1776—In analyzing the birthdate of our nation further we find that the vocation number is four. In spite of that five birthpath which makes us restless and active, we do have the talent for hard work. We are a nation of selfmade men—starting from the bottom. Our businessmen are known as hard headed and practical, both the characteristics of four. We have very few of the playboy types in comparison to other nations. We don't like people who don't or won't work—and four is the number of hard work. We like a man who is willing to work hard, and we always appreciate the down-to-earth practicality that this four signifies. The laboring class here is very strong and well organized.

Salvation Army Camp Takes First Group of Mothers, Children

A group of 240 mothers and children will begin a 10 day vacation on Monday at the Salvation Army's Wonderland camp near Antioch, Ill. This is the first contingent of the 1,200 women and children selected by the Army's family service department and other welfare agencies for an outing this summer. The Soo Line railroad is providing transportation for the campers.

In order to give the mothers a complete rest, a nursery school is maintained for the younger children. Plenty of food and healthy recreation is the basis of the program. In addition to these campers, two groups of 40 crippled and cardiac children will spend three weeks at camp beginning Tuesday. This is the fifth season for crippled children, whose outings are planned thru the Christopher school, and the first for cardiac patients, arranged for by the Chicago Heart association.

Starting today, Boy Scouts and Girl Guards from Army sponsored groups thruout Chicago will encamp for a week. Other small groups will use the camp until Aug. 12, when 400 boys from the near north side will be sent to camp by the north side civic committee. Maj. Albert E. Ramsdale, head of the family service department, is in charge of the camp program.

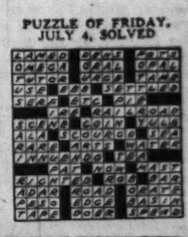
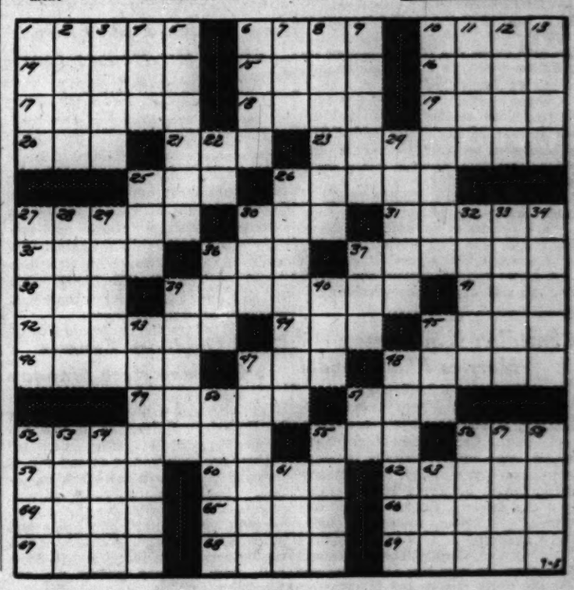
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, JULY 4, SOLVED





400 TWINS SEE DOUBLE, LOOKING AT EACH OTHER

200 Sets Registered at Chicago Convention.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Two hundred sets of twins, most of whom have spent most of their lives being looked at, gathered at the Hotel Morrison yesterday to look at one another.

The youngest set to register, as the International Twin convention opened, was 4 months old. The oldest was 60 years. In between were all ages and sexes, but always aligned in inseparable pairs and arrayed in alarming similitude extending even to the color of sox, the brush of hair, and the shape of spectacles.

Emory and Ernest Hicks of Birmingham, Ala., look alike and act alike, but not until they came to the Chicago convention did they, for almost the first time in their 35 years' twinship, dress alike.

Choose Suits Independently.

"It's like this," explained Emory. "We've been married and living separately for five years. I decided to get a new suit to come up here. I got on the train and found Ernest, there ahead of me, had bought a new suit exactly like mine."

Almost every set of twins had a comedy of errors story to tell. With Ralph and Roland Oswalt of Wabash, Ind., two graying gentlemen of 40, dressed identically in neat gray suits, gray and blue ties, and glistening spectacles, it is [1] money, [2] wives.

"I get paid for accounts people owe him," Roland observed proudly. "I take it. It's very convenient."

"Yes, but his wife followed me down the street one day," Ralph countered.

"That's the only time she got fooled," Roland retorted.

They Confused the Girls.

"Humph!" observed Roland. "Have you forgotten how both wives got us confused before we were married?"

Mothering identical twins is even more of a problem, Mrs. Louise Cody, 2143 Adams street, confessed, as she registered Mary Louise and Marilyn Lorraine, 4 years old, whose yellow curls were brushed into Cupid's locks for the occasion.

"How do you tell them apart?" some one asked her.

"Depends on what they are doing," she said. "If one is doing something the other generally does I get all mixed up. I took some pictures of them last week and tried to make them identify themselves and they made a mistake, so what do I do?"

She Suspects a Plot.

"One used to suck her finger and the other her thumb. That helped me a lot until they changed. Now both suck their thumbs. I think they did it purposefully.'

Most of the twins spent the day getting the autographs of other twins, but Dr. H. H. Strandsvok, instructor in zoology at the University of Chicago, spent it testing all tractable twins for scientific anomalies that are inherited, such as red-green color blindness or an inability to taste phenyl-thyocarbamide.

The results will be included in a new series of studies the university is beginning on twinship. His day's research produced, however, two findings that he had not expected: One set of identical twins, girls, possessed webbing between the toes, a congenital characteristic.

SHERIFFS TOLD TO INSTITUTE FEE INCREASES

Sheriffs in Illinois outside of Cook county were informed yesterday that they may begin to collect increased fees for legal services as authorized by the last legislature.

Fees for the services of writs and other chores performed by sheriffs were increased from 20 to 100 per cent to provide more funds to combat crime in rural districts. The increases do not raise the salaries of sheriffs but allow them more money to hire additional deputies. The new fees also will allow sheriffs to be paid expenses for the investigation of crimes and the patroling of highways.

The bill providing for the increase was introduced by Senator Charles W. Baker [R., Davis Junction] and Senator Martin Lohmann [D., Pekin]. Fees collected in Cook county were not changed by the legislature. Attorney General George F. Barrett has held the change in the law constitutional.

GOV. GREEN HAILS AMERICANISM AS HYMN OF PRIDE

Springfield, Ill., July 4 (AP).—Gov. Dwight H. Green told a crowd attending a pageant at the state fairgrounds tonight that "there is nothing that can give every one of us a deeper inspiration than the simple statement: 'I am an American.'"

"Those words are the greatest ever written into history, or spoken by the tongue of man," he said. "The phrase can be repeated again and again, and each time it takes on a new significance.

"It is, in itself, a ringing hymn of pride, while we follow the pursuits we are permitted to enjoy in peace. But it can take on a sterner meaning as we warn the forces of destruction, now rampant thruout the world, that we will defend our precious liberties against aggression."

Comedian K.n Murray Marries Photo Model

Hollywood, Cal., July 4 (AP).—Ken Murray, screen and radio comedian, and Cleatus Caldwell, photographer's model, were married at the home of Actor Lew Ayres today. Bing Crosby, accompanied by Ayres at the organ, was the soloist. Edgar Bergen was Murray's best man. Among the guests were Jack Oakie, Bob Hope, Johnny Mack Brown, Jon Hall, and Frances Langford. It was the first marriage for the bride, the second for Murray.

SEIZE TWO MEN LOOTING YACHTS AT JACKSON PARK

Chief Boatswain's Mate Arthur Adrian of the Jackson Park coast guard was shaving yesterday when he was told that two men in a dinghy were looting yachts anchored in the inner harbor at 65th street.

Adrian set out in a speedboat and found the two, their tiny boat jammed to the gunwales with fire extinguishers, blankets, and other loot. They were in shallow water near shore.

Unable to run his speedboat into the shallow water, Adrian demanded that the men row out to him. Instead, they pulled ashore, where Park Policemen Edward McClellan and Robert McLennan were waiting. They had been notified by Adrian before he set out. The burglars identified themselves as Walter Filar, 28 years old, 4421 South Wood street, and John Kroll, 25, of 4432 South Wood street.

Lincoln Ellsworth Plans Search for Inca Tombs

New York, July 4 (AP).—Lieutenant Commander Lincoln Ellsworth, explorer of the arctic and antarctic zones, sailed today on the Grace liner Santa Lucia for Peru, where he will search for lost tombs of the Inca emperors. Mount Mista, an Andean peak, will be one of his first objectives. He said the Incas buried their kings in high places and previous explorers have reported the presence of huge hand hewn blocks of stones near the top of that peak. Ellsworth has a two month leave of absence from the naval reserve.

PATRIOTIC TUNES TO BE FEATURED ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Col.M'Cormick Speaks on Chicagoland Hour.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system will carry over the spirit of Independence day into the Chicagoland hour to be broadcast from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. A medley of patriotic and typically American songs from the pen of George M. Cohan, whose 63d birthday coincided with the birthday of the nation yesterday, will highlight the Chicagoland hour broadcast.

Cohan's stirring American songs, from the library of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, will be sung by Marion Claire, noted soprano; Attilio Baggiore, operatic tenor, and the W-G-N chorus, with the orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, providing the musical backdrop.

Col. McCormick Will Speak.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who has been the speaker on all the Chicagoland hours, will be heard again tonight.

The Cohan medley, arranged by Robert Trendler, director of the chorus, includes "It's Your Flag," "Mary Is a Grand Old Name," "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Over There," "Give My Regards to Broadway," and "You're a Grand Old Flag."

Two Solos by Marion Claire.

Miss Claire will sing two solos—Woodman's "A Birthday" and Goodman's "Love Has Found My Heart" from "Countess Maritza." Baggiore's solo will be "Trumpeter" by Dix.

The program will be produced by William A. Bacher, chief of programs and productions for W-G-N.

SHOT TO DEATH WALKING WITH ANOTHER'S WIFE

Stanley Hoyne, 28 years old, of 6411 Justine street, a structural iron worker, was shot and killed last night while walking in front of 6439 South Ashland avenue with Mrs. Philomena Pappalardo, 32, of 6433 South Ashland avenue, and the latter's son, Frank, 4.

Mrs. Pappalardo fled the scene, but was later picked up at her home by Englewood police. She told Capt. Patrick Collins that her estranged husband, Thomas [Mike] Pappalardo, 45, of 1659 West 17th street, an upholsterer, stepped out of a gangway and shot Hoyne. Pappalardo and his nephew, Albert Gallisee, 23, of 4832 South Harding avenue, whom Mrs. Pappalardo said accompanied her husband, were later arrested separately for questioning.

Mrs. Pappalardo, who has two other sons, Nuncio, 13, and George, 7, told police that her husband beat her last Monday and accused her of an affair with Hoyne. She said his accusation was untrue. She and Pappalardo separated two years ago, she said. She said she attended a movie last night, encountered Hoyne accidentally afterward, and that they had walked only a short distance when the shooting occurred.

NORTHERN LIGHTS CLIMAX FOURTH OF JULY DISPLAY

Nature climaxed Independence day fireworks displays early today with an unusually brilliant display of the aurora borealis, or northern lights. The display, only occasionally seen in Chicago, was accompanied by static interference with radio reception and telephone conversations in suburbs along the north shore, police reported. The flashing green lights in the northern sky were visible from most parts of Chicago for more than an hour and THE TRIBUNE received dozens of calls from persons wishing to know the cause of the flashes.

GARY IS CLEANING ITS STREETS ONE SIDE AT A TIME

How to prevent overnight parking from interfering with the business of cleaning the streets has puzzled officials of Gary, Ind., for a long time. But, according to a report of the American Public Works association yesterday, the problem seems to have been solved.

Under a new traffic regulation in the city, alternate sides of the street are swept on alternate nights with motorists being allowed to park only on the side which isn't to be swept.

So the car owners will always know the proper side to use, the street sweepers have been ordered to clean the sides of the streets on which the house numbers are odd on odd days of the month, and the even numbered side on even days.

SOX BREAK EVEN; CUBS DEFEAT CARDS TWICE

STEEL HEELS WINS STARS AND STRIPES BEFORE 50,000

WHIPS EQUIFOX, GALLAHADION TO PAY $66.80

Mutuel Handle Is Over Million.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Steel Heels, Equifox and Gallahadion went head and head over the line in a magnificent finish of the Stars and Stripes handicap yesterday at Arlington Park. Steel Heels, racing at odds of 32 to 1 in this $10,000 stake, was the winner by a head and Equifox was second by an equal margin after a stretch drive which brought every one of the 50,000 spectators up on his toes roaring.

This was the high point of an afternoon jammed with action. The crowd, which was the largest to attend the races in the Chicago area since the 1920s, poured $1,054,176 thru the mutuel machines. Last year's Independence day figure was $906,617, and the Arlington record, set on Classic day, 1930, is $1,400,000. The fans filled the big stands from roof to ground. Thousands more gathered on the clubhouse lawns and on the cement terraces, and still others took their places in the picturesquely landscaped infield.

Betting Is Wide Open.

The Stars and Stripes handicap, which was run over a route of a mile and an eighth, was one of the most wide open in betting in the history of the stake. The field was large, 14 going to the post, and nearly all were conceded a chance. Only two horses were at longer odds than the winner.

Most of them were in there running from start to finish. At nearly every stage of the race some horses were coming out of the pack to challenge the pace setters. And the stretch drive was like a cavalry charge, with that big band of thorobreds pounding down in hard pursuit of Gallahadion, who had taken the lead on the last turn.

Equifox, Steel Heels, and Viscounty were all closing resolutely in that final furlong. For a time it seemed that Gallahadion might last. Then Steel Heels forged up steadily and an instant later it seemed as tho Equifox, moving on the outside, would be the one to get home first.

Steel Heels Pulls Ahead.

But Jockey Al Snider rallied Steel Heels and kept him running brilliantly. For the last few yards the three leaders were head and head, with Steel Heels in the middle, Equifox on his right, and Gallahadion on his left. Steel Heels had a clear margin as he went over the line, but the judges called for a photo to separate the second and third horses.

Steel Heels ran the mile and an eighth in 1:49 4-5, which was only two fifths of a second slower than the track record. His mutuel payoff was $66.80, $26.00, and $13.80. Equifox paid $17.20 and $11.00 for place and show. Gallahadion's show price was $7.40.

War Minstrel Sets Pace.

Immediately after the start of the Stars and Stripes, War Minstrel went out to make the pace, with the Woolford farm entry of Technician and Joe Schenck close behind him. Gallahadion was running fourth and Steel Heels fifth during the gallop down the back stretch. Equifox was running with the trailers, but as they approached the far turn Arthur Craig began sending him up steadily.

On the last turn War Minstrel weakened and Technician and Gallahadion moved past him. After a duel in the early part of the stretch drive, Gallahadion disposed of Tech-

9 FILLIES NAMED FOR ARLINGTON'S LASSIE STAKES

Lassie Entries

NINE juvenile fillies were named in the overnight entries for the Lassie Stakes, which will be run today at Arlington Park. If all start, the gross value of this $10,000 added event will be $30,280. The field in order of post position follows:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey.	Pr. odds.
Petrify	117	R. Donoso	5-2
Valdina Melia	117	C. Calvin	8-1
My Choice	117	A. Craig	12-1
Draeh	117	J. G. Wilson	12-1
Famed	117	K. McCombs	6-1
Vivacity	114	J. Richard	4-1
Zoroastra	117	A. Borton	10-1
Lotopoise	117	S. Young	6-1
Court Manners	117	G. Seabo	8-2

Nine fleet juvenile fillies were named for today's 13th running of the $10,000 added Lassie Stakes at Arlington Park, annually one of America's leading events for 2 year old members of the sex. If all go to the post, and there is every indication they will, the race will gross $30,280. Without the $1,000 fee to be paid for each starter, the purse amounts to $21,280.

Picks Valdina Melia.

The field will include two speedy daughters of Equipoise, Hal Price Headley's Lotopoise, and John Hay Whitney's Court Manners. Alfred G. Vanderbilt will be represented by Petrify, chestnut daughter of Identify.

John J. Flanigan, trainer of the Valdina farm stable, has selected Valdina Melia to represent the big Texas establishment in the Lassie. She earned the call by a sparkling victory in the Brookwood purse last Saturday. In that race Woolford farm's Lassie hope, Famed, finished second, and former Senator J. N. Camden's Zoroastra, another Lassie candidate, came in fourth.

Stable Rivalry in Lassie.

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars and her trainer, Roy Waldron, will enter My Choice. Another miss who has answered all questions in a manner most satisfactory to her owner is T. H. Heard Jr.'s Draeh, winner of her only start at Arlington. Mr. Heard took the brown daughter of Bull Dog and Miss Bunting out of the yearling sales last year, reversed his own surname and gave it to the filly.

The keen rivalry between the Headley and Whitney establishments, from owners to grooms, over the relative merits of the two daughters of Equipoise, is one of the interesting sidelights of the Lassie.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

HORSE racing in Illinois is bound to be affected by the bill waiting only for Gov. Dwight Green's signature to legalize handbooks thruout the state. . . . There are moral aspects and revenue angles to the measure which, no doubt, were given due consideration by members of the Illinois legislature before they passed the bill. . . . This department, however, is concerned only with its influence on horse racing as a sport. . . . It is reasonable to assume that downtown betting establishments, air conditioned and equipped with every modern convenience, will prove extremely popular. . . . There probably will be 10 or 20 in the loop alone, each with accommodations for 500 or more customers. . . . If legalized handbook betting prospers in Illinois, it probably will be adopted elsewhere. . . . Many who now make their wagers at the track will save money and time by dropping into their favorite gambling parlor to follow the progress of the races in which they have a financial interest. . . . There will be less money passing thru the mutuels at the track. . . . The margin of profit at many of the nation's racing plants cannot survive competition from legalized books. . . . The next step will be a reduction in the purses offered horsemen. . . . Men who have invested hundreds of thousands of dollars in breeding farms may lose their enthusiasm for the sport when the chances of getting back their money on a Whirlaway or a Seabiscuit are nonexistent. . . . The caliber of racing will deteriorate. . . . The sporting angle will be gone. . . . There will be nothing left but the gambling element. . . . When that situation prevails race results ought to be moved to the financial pages or discarded altogether. . . . They will have no place in our sports columns. . . . We could use the space for baseball, football, basketball, and other events which still rate as athletic news.

Commissioner Landis, who recently paid his first visit to the press box in Wrigley field, complained of the tugs of gravity as he mounted to the cage. . . . He should try to get to the Comiskey park press den some of these days. . . . Don Kellogg, sports reporter for the Lincoln, Neb., Star, recently married Miss Joan Lyman, oldest daughter of Link Lyman, former Chicago Bear tackle, who now is line coach at Nebraska. . . . Tip to future Wrigley employés: P. K. Wrigley becomes ill at even the sight of onions. . . . Ticket sales for the All-Star football game between the College All-Americans and Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field Aug. 28 have broken all records for the series. . . . All $4.40 seats were disposed of in a week and more than half of the $3.30 allotment already have been sold. . . . After watching Lou Stringer aim his throws his first day as a Cub, First Baseman Babe Dahlgren told the youngster, "Just cut it loose, I'll be responsible after the ball leaves your fingers." . . . Cub observers aver it was about the best thing possible for the veteran to say to the rookie.

WARD AND TODD REACH WESTERN QUARTER-FINALS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 4.—Marvin [Bud] Ward of Spokane, Wash., and Harry Todd of Dallas, Tex., two serious young men who are without feeling when they play golf, are gradually progressing to that western amateur championship match that every one here at Broadmoor's mountain curtained course has been hoping for.

There will be a slight pause, 36 holes, to be exact, for both Champion Ward and Medalist Todd before they can arrange a meeting in Sunday's 36 hole championship. Before he can go to his second successive final, Bud must settle with John Kraft, Denver school teacher and athletic official, in the first of the morrow's semi-finals. Todd has to contend with the surprise of the tournament, bespectacled Morris Norton of Wichita Falls, Tex.

Does It the Hard Way.

Ward as usual had a time of it in winning one of his matches today. The champ encountered Warren Berl, captain of Stanford university's national intercollegiate champions, and required a 69, one under par, in order to win by a two up margin, Berl having a commendable 71 himself. A 25 foot downhill birdie putt on the 18th brought about the decision. In the afternoon, Bud switched tactics and polished off Bill Tucker of Dallas by 8 and 6, being six up at the turn with a 32, three under par. For the 84 holes he has played since the tournament started on Tuesday, Bud is precisely four under par.

Todd had his troubles, too, needing a first nine of 32 to eliminate Claude Wright, the Denver plasterer, 4 and 3. In the afternoon, Harry, who won this championship in 1939 and went to the semi-finals before he lost to Ward last year, had to travel 17 holes before he could do in Earl Berryhill, the Sapulpa, Okla., veteran whom he beat in the 1940 final of Broadmoor's famed invitational.

Norton Attracts Attention.

Kraft was forced to call upon birdie putts at the 16th and 17th before he could wrest his quarter argument from Dee Replogle, last of the Stanford players. Norton went the distance against Verne [Spec] Stewart of Albuquerque, N. M., former Stanford star, before his par four on the 18th enabled him to win, 1 up, with a 74, four over par. Norton finally is causing the galleries to pay attention to him. He qualified easily with a 147, then proceeded to put out Chick Evans, eight time winner of the Western; Frank Stranahan of Toledo, new trans-Mississippi champion, and then the highly regarded Stewart.

The morning round produced noth-

DODGERS DROP JOE VOSMIK FOR ROOKIE CATCHER

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 4 (AP).—Outfielder Joe Vosmik, veteran of 11 years in the majors and at one time one of the leading hitters in the American league, was released unconditionally today by the Brooklyn Dodgers to make room for a rookie catcher.

The Dodgers recalled Angelo Giuliani from Minneapolis of the American association to take up the slack caused by the injury of regular backstop Mickey Owen and the suspension of Babe Phelps.

SOX WIN FIRST, 3-2, THEN LOSE TO TIGERS, 10-6

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 4.—Thornton Lee boomed to his 10th success of the season this afternoon as the White Sox beat the Tigers, 3 to 2, in the first game of a double header. Tho Johnny Rigney and his mates got off to a two run lead in the second game, unhappy things subsequently transpired and the Tigers eventually won, 10 to 6.

The Sox, who made three hits in each of their last two previous games against the Tigers in Chicago, made six off Tommy Bridges in the first game. Three of them in the first two innings, including Bill Knickerbocker's fifth homer, drove in just enough runs to serve for victory purposes.

Sox Get Going in Eighth.

In the second game, against Hal Newhouser, the Sox confined their slugging to three hits until two were out in the eighth. Two of the three were factors in two unearned runs which gave the Sox that aforesaid 2 to 0 lead. After two were out in the eighth, however, the Sox rose up against Newhouser. Joe Kuhel singled, Dario Lodigiani doubled, Luke Appling walked, Taft Wright singled, and Julius Solters cleared the loaded bases with a triple. Then Al Benton replaced Newhouser and made Ben Chapman pop out, leaving Solters on third with the tying run.

Main culprit in the Sox's loss of the second game was Rip Radcliff. With the score 3 to 2 in the sixth, Rip drove in three runs with a homer

39,423 WATCH NORTH SIDERS WIN, 6-5 AND 5-2

Dahlgren Crashes Homer in 1st Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, who at times find ways to offset their various frailties, took advantage of every opportunity offered them yesterday to whip the powerful Cardinals twice in Wrigley field, dropping them from the National league lead while the biggest crowd of the season, 39,423, cheered the proceedings. The scores were 6 to 5 and 5 to 2. The Cards, who seemed to forget they were tied with the Dodgers for the lead, contributed six unearned runs to the Cub totals and the Chicagoans accepted them gratefully as they climbed to fifth place.

Altho they were held to eight hits by Lefty Ernie White in the first game, the Cubs had him out of action before the eighth inning was completed. Then they picked on a former mate, Clyde Shoun, driving him to the showers in the sixth inning of the second. Harry Gumbert was the relief man in both cases.

Charity Begins at Home.

The first battle appeared safe for the Cardinals when they knocked Vern Olsen into the club house with an eighth inning run, a happening that brought Vance Page to the rescue. But in the home half Babe Dahlgren stepped up with one out and belted his twelfth homer into the left field terrace, tying the score. Then, with two out, Lou Stringer doubled and scored what proved the winning run when Bob Sturgeon took hold of one of White's pitches and drilled it through Martin Marion's hands for a single.

Larry [Pop] French yielded only one honest run in the second game but nevertheless was on the road to a trimming until the sixth. Until then Shoun had done very well for himself and the Cards hadn't gotten around to being charitable. They got that way in the sixth when, after one had scored, Don Padgett suffered an attack of butter fingers in a play at the plate. His blunder let in not only the tying run but two more of the unearned variety. But the Cubs did score an untainted run later. Bill Nicholson exploded his fifteenth homer off Gumbert in the eighth.

FIRST GAME

Olsen escaped undamaged in the first inning despite two hits, but three safeties in the second proved far more effective for the Cardinals. Marion and Mancuso slapped singles to left with none out, but Mancuso was forced at second on what Lake planned as a sacrifice bunt. However, Lake went to second on a passed ball, so the purpose of the bunt was served. White's fly to Cavarretta sent Marion home and Lake completed the trip on Crespi's single.

Quite by accident the Cubs also scored in the second. Dahlgren doubled to left after Nicholson had fanned and Dallessandro, trying to fall away from a pitch, was rewarded with a looping single into short left. Dahlgren going home. The Cards took this run back in the third on singles by Triplett and Mize and a fumble by Hack. The Cubs got close again on McCullough's double and Crespi's error in the fourth.

Then the Cubs burst loose furiously in the fifth, scoring twice on one hit. Olsen walked, Hack doubled over first, and both counted when Lake threw wild to Mize on McCullough after two were out. This gave the Cubs a 4 to 3 edge until Slaughter drilled his sixth homer of the year into the left field terrace in the seventh to tie the score.

White's single with one out in the

WARRIOR FIRST TO FINISH IN SAUGATUCK RACE

Sally Also Takes Time Prize in Cruising Division.

Saugatuck, Mich., July 4 [Special].—Warrior, Commodore Victor Milliken's Chicago Yacht club flagship, and Sally, Manning Hodgdon's Herreshoff designed cutter, were time prize winners in the Jackson Park Yacht club's 21st annual race to Saugatuck which finished today. The record fleet of 63 yachts started Thursday night from Chicago on the 90 miles course.

A strong northeast wind headed the fleet all last night and this morning. Every windjammer had to beat into choppy seas, forcing the yachts to cover between 130 and 160 miles.

Warrior First to Finish.

The Warrior, an 8 meter class racing sloop, was first of the fleet to finish. Its elapsed time for the course was 17:57:17. Corrected time of 14:35:45 placed the yacht first in its class, large universal sloops, as well as the universal [racing] division.

Sally, a 39 foot cutter, was sailed to victory by Hal Johnson. The yacht's owner, Vice Commodore Manning Hodgdon of the Jackson Park Yacht club, was unable to sail. The Sally's elapsed time was 17:23:15 and its corrected time 14:58:06.

Race Back to Chicago Tonight.

Tomorrow night the fleet will race back to Chicago from Black Lake, Mich., 7 miles north of here, for the Chicago Yacht club's George Clinch and Col. Morse trophies.

Zuppke Has Long Talk with Pres. Willard

Champaign, Ill., July 4 [Special].—Bob Zuppke, continuing his fight to remain as football coach at the University of Illinois, despite efforts by Athletic Director Wendell S. Wilson to force him out, made a surprise visit to the university campus today, and announced that he had been a guest of President Arthur Cutts Willard at the president's home in Urbana.

"President Willard invited me to luncheon and we had a friendly chat," Zuppke said. "Other than that, I have no statement to make."

Makes Trip by Auto.

Zuppke drove here from his summer home in Muskegon, Mich., where he answered Wilson in a series of exclusive interviews with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. At that time, due to previously arranged engagements, he had been forced to decline an invitation to dine with the university president.

Zuppke did not say whether his conversation with the president was of a conciliatory nature, or whether Willard was carrying out Wilson's appeal that Zuppke give up coaching after 28 seasons at Illinois. Zuppke did say, however, that he has not changed his position and that he does not intend to resign.

Pleased at Backing.

He appeared pleased that 100 University of Illinois alumni in Chicago, meeting yesterday, gave him an overwhelming vote of confidence. He will remain here tomorrow on business in connection with the purchase of land which he will add to his farm near Mahomet, 11 miles west of here, along the Sangamon river.

PIRATES DEFEAT REDS, 6-4, AFTER LOSING 1ST, 2-0

DiMaggio's Home Run Beats Champions.

Cincinnati, O., July 4 (AP).—Vince DiMaggio converted a fourth-inning pitch by Monte Pearson into a home run today to give Pittsburgh a 6 to 4 second game victory in a holiday double header after Cincinnati took the opener, 6 to 0, behind Bucky Walters' six-hit hurling. Two mates were aboard when DiMaggio hit his 10th homer. A small crowd of 14,391 watched the games.

Smart fielding in which Bill Werber in successive innings converted hot waist-high liners into two of the Reds' four double plays helped Walters to his 10th victory in the first game. Scores:

INDIANS RALLY TWICE; TAKE 2 FROM BROWNS

Cleveland, O., July 4 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians won two games today by the narrowest of margins, nosing out the St. Louis Browns in the final innings of both contests to post 9 to 8 and 3 to 2 victories and gain one game on the idle New York Yankees.

The Browns, however, kept Bob Feller from gaining his 17th victory of the year, knocking him from the mound in seven innings of the first game in favor of Clint Brown. Al Smith won the second game, which was held to seven innings by an agreement to release the Cleveland stadium at 5:45 p. m. so that a Fourth of July celebration could be held there.

Lou Boudreau won the second game by doubling in the seventh, scoring Gene DeSautels and pinch-hitter Larry Rosenthal, but this was anti-climax after the first game windup. That was won by Jeff Heath's stealing home in the ninth with two out, while 34,219 fans went wild.

Feller had 10 strikeouts for the day. He was sailing along with a 4 to 1 lead until four Browns hit safely in the fifth.

Cullenbine's single was the only bingle off Feller in the sixth, but a three-hit assault in the seventh put the strikeout king under the showers.

RAIN WASHES OUT NEW YORK CLUBS' GAMES, BIG GATES

New York, July 4 [Special].—Major league baseball in the metropolitan area suffered a staggering blow today when, to the bitter disappointment of the city's thousands of fans, rain washed out the holiday double headers scheduled for the Yankee stadium and Ebbets field.

At the stadium a crowd of 70,000 had been expected to see the Yankees battle the Senators in addition to attending the Lou Gehrig memorial ceremonies.

The Giant-Dodger double header would have drawn a capacity throng of more than 34,000.

The Yanks' services for their former captain are now set for Sunday afternoon, when the team opposes the Athletics at the stadium.

Joe Louis to Confer with Wife's Lawyers Tomorrow

Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, who was scheduled to confer with Mrs. Louis' attorneys today about divorce proceedings recently filed by his wife, has postponed the conference until tomorrow noon. At the meeting, which will be held on the south side, Mrs. Louis will discuss an alimony settlement. The Brown Bomber will come from Detroit for the consultation.

Rain Postpones Eastern Clay Court Tennis Meet

New York, July 4 (AP).—Play in the eastern clay courts tennis tournament was postponed today because of rain.

ROAMERS WIN TWO.

The Chicago Roamers swept a double header from the Wonder club, 13 to 12 and 8 to 4, in Washington park yesterday. The Roamers rallied for three runs in the ninth to win the first game.

after the side should have been retired. And then, after the Sox had moved up in the first of the eighth, Rip knocked in two runs with a triple as a greeting to Buck Ross immediately after he had replaced Jack Hallett, something of a triple tosser himself.

Lee Turns in Excellent Job.

Lee was superb in seven of the nine innings of the first game and plenty good in eight of the nine. Four of the five singles he yielded were made in the second inning for Detroit's only runs. In the third inning he walked Rudy York and Bruce Campbell after three and two counts with one out. Then he made Birdie Tebbetts roll into a double play. The only hit besides the cluster in the second inning was a single by Pinky Higgins with two out in the fifth which promptly was nullified when York accommodated with his second strikeout. Only one Tiger got on base in the last six innings.

A crowd of 40,000 saw the games.

FIRST GAME

Bridges started the afternoon's exercise by fanning Knickerbocker then began getting himself into trouble by walking Kuhel. Lodigiani popped to Perry but Appling walked, after which Wright lined a single to right, Kuhel scoring and Appling taking third. Solters followed with a single to left, Appling scoring. Chapman walked, loading the bases, whereupon Tresh ran the count to three balls and two strikes before grounding to Croucher.

Knickerbocker socked his fifth homer of the season when he came up in the second inning. It was a line shot into the lower deck of the left field stand.

Lee Is Shelled a Bit.

Lee underwent some shelling in the second, but Solters threw out the tying run at the plate to end the inning with the Sox leading, 3 to 2. Tebbetts walked with two out and Croucher caromed a single off Knickerbocker's glove. Perry singled to center, scoring Tebbetts. Bridges supplied the second out by fanning, but Stainback singled, scoring Croucher. McCosky singled to left and Perry was out at the plate, Solters to Tresh.

Chapman opened the fourth with a single and went to second on Tresh's sacrifice. Lee then fanned and Knickerbocker grounded to Perry. There was a greater fadeout in the next Chicago inning. Kuhel pushed off with a double and moved to third on Lodigiani's sacrifice. Appling then fanned and Wright popped to Higgins.

The Sox went out in order in the sixth, seventh, and eighth innings, but with one out in the ninth Chapman singled to left and went on to second when McCosky fumbled the ball. Tresh then flied to McCosky and Lee, thrice previously a strikeout victim, bounced to Perry.

SECOND GAME

The Sox started the game's first scoring enterprise with their second hit of the game, a single with which Lodigiani led off the fourth inning. Appling singled to right, putting Lodigiani on third. When Campbell threw to third Appling advanced to second and then, after Campbell's throw went over Higgins' head, Lodigiani was waved home and Appling to third. Appling scored on Wright's long fly to Campbell.

The Tigers scored in their fourth even tho Rigney struck out three batsmen. York walked and Campbell struck out. Higgins put York on third with a single, then Sullivan struck out. Croucher singled to center, scoring York, after which Newhouser was called out on strikes.

Rigney also opened the Tiger fifth with a walk. He passed McCosky after a three and two count, then passed Gehringer on four pitches. The pair advanced on Radcliff's sacrifice and McCosky got home with the tying run on York's fly to Chapman. Campbell doubled, scoring Gehringer. Higgins rammed a single off Lodigiani's glove, Campbell stopping at third, Sullivan then struck out.

Then Comes Rip's Homer.

The side should have been out before Radcliff socked his three run homer in the sixth, only hit of the inning. After Croucher had fanned Appling took a kick at Newhouser's easy grounder. McCosky popped to Lodigiani, then Gehringer drew his second pass in two innings. Radcliff drove the ball into the upper deck of the right field stands on which he scored behind Newhouser and Gehringer.

Rigney did not come out for the seventh, in which Hallett succeeded him. Campbell promptly teed off with a triple to center and held third while Lodigiani was fielding Higgins' grounder. Campbell scored while Higgins was reaching first on Dario's low throw. Higgins was out trying to steal second. Sullivan walked and advanced on a passed ball. Croucher fanned and Knickerbocker threw out Newhouser.

Then came the belated Sox thrust in the eighth, in which four runs were scored and the tying run left on third, after Benton replaced Newhouser.

Hallett saw no need of playing favorites with Campbell, who had led off the seventh with a triple, so he pitched his triple ball to McCosky at the start of the home eighth. When he followed up by walking Gehringer—Charley's third straight walk—Hallett was replaced by Ross. Ross also had a triple ball ready and pitched it to Radcliff, McCosky and Gehringer scoring. York popped to Lodigiani to round out a hitless holiday, but Campbell sent a long fly to Chapman, Radcliff scoring.

He has never scored any outstanding triumph, just plugging along with the card until the semi-finals of several big tourneys, then yield to a subpar round by his opponent. Tomorrow may be the day that Norton decides to do a little par shaving himself, and his match against Todd will doubtless draw as many fans as the Ward-Kraft debate.

Results of this morning's second round:

Marvin Ward, Spokane, Wash., defeated Warren Berl, Stanford university, 2 up.

Bill Tucker, Dallas, Tex., defeated Frank Tatum, Stanford, 3 and 2.

John Kraft, Denver, Colo., defeated Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Cal., 7 and 6.

Todd defeated Berryhill, 2 and 1.

WOHLFIEL WINS RACE CUT SHORT AT 77 MI. MARK

Milwaukee, Wis., July 4 (AP).—Johnny Wohlfiel of Detroit drove an Offenshauser Special to victory in the national championship midget automobile race today. Originally scheduled to go the full 100 miles, the race was cut short when an erring official waved the checkered flag at the 77 mile mark.

Wohlfiel, driving a car owned by Ronnie Householder of Los Angeles, covered the 77 miles in 57 minutes 54.02 seconds. Householder finished second; Pete Romcevich of Chicago was third, and Ralph Pratt of Kansas City placed fourth in the field of 23 starters.

Radio to Claim Dizzy Dean from Cubs; Rumored

Dizzy Dean was among the Cubs who went to Pittsburgh last night, and it probably was his last journey as a fellow traveler in James Wilson's fifth place outfit. The one time great pitcher—at least he was great prior to his acquisition by the Chicago club—has signed, according to rumor, to become a radio announcer in St. Louis, the town in which his now vanished right arm lifted him to big league fame.

Dean was one of baseball's costliest experiments. The Cubs bought him from the Cardinals in the spring of 1938 for $185,000 and players Curt Davis, Clyde Shoun, and Tuck Stainback, all of whom still are big leaguers.

Dean's career as a Cub was an occasional pitching job and frequent appearances before x-ray cameras and specialists, with a few off the field mishaps thrown in to keep the Great Man's name in the sports page headlines.

The first move in the abandonment of the idea that Dean would be any kind of a pitcher was the leasing of his services last season to the Tulsa club. Diz went away to master an alleged new delivery—side arm—which was the way he had been throwing for two years.

When he came back he still had the nothing ball, which was so murderously handled by enemies during last

COUNTY NEW CAR SALES SOAR TO 6 MONTHS' RECORD

97,856 Autos Purchased; June High Also Set.

Automobile sales in Cook county for the first six months of this year totaled 97,856, setting an all-time record for the period, it was disclosed yesterday in a compilation based on statistics furnished by the Bureau of Motor Advice. June sales totaling 16,807 also set an all time record for that month.

[The Bureau of Motor Advice is a semiofficial agency which tabulates registrations of new cars with the office of the secretary of state at Springfield.]

Sales in the first six months of 1940 totaled 71,398. The total for this year was 32,298 more than in the prosperity year of 1929.

Equal to Full Year Sales.

It is indicated that by the end of this week they will have passed the 100,000 car mark and the sale of 100,000 cars is said to be a good year's business. In the 19 year record maintained by the planning department of THE TRIBUNE, sales have passed the 100,000 mark for a full year in only four years.

This year's record breaking sales are attributed to a number of factors, including the public's fear of higher prices, increased taxes and difficulty next year in obtaining new cars.

ISLAND CREEK.

In ordering my winter's coal recently I happened to mention the Island Creek Coal company, which my dealer said is a profitable business. I would like some details of the company's operations. R. F.

Answer: The Island Creek Coal company, with general offices in Boston, Mass., is a major soft coal producer, holding rich deposits which can be mined at relatively low cost. Because of these natural advantages, the company has had a long history of profitable operations and an unbroken dividend record since 1912.

Earnings results in the last five years follow:

	Net inc.	Earned per com.	Dividends per com.
1936	$1,238,421	$1.83	$2.00
1937	1,527,766	2.32	2.00
1938	1,016,841	1.46	2.00
1939	1,586,121	2.42	2.00
1940	2,317,762	3.65	3.00

In the first quarter this year, net income declined to $512,100, equal after preferred dividends to 80 cents a common share, against $525,151 or 82 cents a common share in the March quarter of 1940.

Big Furniture Shows in City Open Monday

The first furniture and home furnishings markets since Leon Henderson, price administrator, ruled that no furniture prices should be advanced without the sanction of the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supplies, will open in Chicago Monday.

More than 13,000 manufacturers, dealers, retailers, and buyers are expected to attend the two week sessions of the International Home Furnishings market in the Merchandise Mart and the National Home Furnishings market in the American Furniture Mart. Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the furniture mart, predicted yesterday that the summer market will have the largest attendance in its history and will be of the greatest importance to the industry.

Gauge of Requirements.

"The summer market will be the manufacturer's gauge to his fall production requirements and the retailer's gauge to the possibilities or probabilities of his getting merchandise," Whiting said.

Leading home furnishings manufacturers assert that prices must soon advance because of increased costs of labor, materials, and taxation. Attention has been centered on this market to see if manufacturers will comply with the Henderson ruling and hold prices down until conferences can be arranged to receive the OPACS approval on necessary price increases. Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart, said.

"Furniture producers have revealed that costs of materials have increased steadily since January and every material used in the production of furniture has gone up in price except paint and varnish," Wilson said. "In addition to this added cost, labor readjustments, which make up nearly 50 per cent of the furniture production costs, have created a greater expense."

Price Boosts Contemplated

A survey among manufacturers who have prepared new lines to be introduced at the market revealed that an average price increase of 5 to 10 per cent had been contemplated prior to Henderson's announcement.

Those sponsoring the markets believe that the dealers and retailers thruout the country who will attend have three major objectives in mind. They wish to know if and when they can obtain merchandise in sufficient quantity to bolster dwindling inventories. They will want to check fluctuating price structures and they will wish to learn the latest trends in styling, selling, and merchandising.

Wilson said dollar volume of business transacted during the summer markets will depend upon the ability of the manufacturers to deliver the goods as retailers in almost every part of the country are in need of a larger inventory.

WINNIPEG WHEAT CLOSES STEADY IN LIGHT TRADE

Winnipeg, Man., July 4 (AP) —Trading was light on the grain exchange today and wheat futures prices closed unchanged.

Altho no new export business in wheat or wheat flour could be confirmed, reports indicated that the export business in wheat, reported yesterday at about 600,000 bushels, actually was close to 2,000,000 bushels.

There was a fairly good demand for most grades of cash wheat by shippers and mills.

OPM, TVA AGREE ON BUILDING OF NEW POWER UNIT

Washington, D. C., July 4 (AP).—William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management, said today that the Tennessee Valley authority and the Aluminum Company of America have reached an agreement for the construction of a dam and power facility at the Fontana water site on the Little Tennessee river in North Carolina.

Knudsen's announcement was in a letter answering a query from Senator Harry S. Truman as to why the power facility, needed for aluminum production, had not been developed. On June 20 Truman told Knudsen that testimony before his armament investigating committee "showed that there had been much indecision and inaction on the part of OPM as to the best method of developing the water site."

U. S. ORDERS CHICAGO HEARING ON REDCAPS' DIME-A-BAG PAY PLAN

Washington, D. C., July 4 (AP).—The labor department's wage and hour division announced today that hearings would be held in Chicago July 15 on the 10-cent-a-bag system for redcaps.

The hearings, to obtain information on wages, hours and other conditions and practices of employment, will cover all railroad terminals in Chicago, all terminals of the Illinois Central railroad, terminals in Minneapolis, Minn.; Milwaukee and Madison, Wis.; Omaha, Neb.; Cincinnati and Columbus, O.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Louisville, Ky., and the Pere Marquette station in Detroit.

Hearings will be held later in other large centers.

Accord Hinted to Avert Soft Coal Walkout

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Full negotiating committees for the CIO United Mine Workers and southern soft coal operators were summoned to a meeting in Washington today and both sides indicated they hoped to avert a threatened walkout of 150,000 miners. President John L. Lewis of the mine union and L. Ebersole Gaines, spokesman for the producers, joined in a statement that negotiations were making progress.

Hopes for heading off the strike, scheduled for Tuesday, thus brightened because this was the first time that either side, in all the long discussions, had ever spoken of making headway toward a solution.

Remaining Issues Minor.

The southern producers have agreed to abandon their old 40 cents a day wage differential and the sole remaining issues are understood to cover such minor things as exact wording of contract clauses.

Two great dairy producer groups representing 53,000 farmers, last night accepted Owen D. Young's invitation to confer on a "unified plan of action." as one of the organizations—the Dairy Farmers' union—apparently tightened its four day milk blockade of New York City.

Strike Determination Told.

In accepting the invitation of Young, retired industrialist and now a farm owner, Holland Foster, general chairman of the union which claims 23,000 members in New York, Pennsylvania, and Vermont, emphasized his organization's determination to continue the strike for a uniform $3 per hundred pounds [47 quarts] against an estimated July price of $2.15.

At the same time, the Dairymen's League Coöperative association, with an estimated 30,000 members, expressed itself "glad to participate" in the conference and indicated members may join the strike if Young's effort for higher prices fails. Young previously had appealed to the federal mediation board to determine a fair price for farmers.

TORONTO STOCKS FIRM; MONTREAL LIST IS EASIER

TORONTO, Ont., July 4 (AP).—Stock trading was up to the recent average here today despite the United States holiday, and prices held steady to strong. About 125,000 shares were traded.

A few of the golds were in demand and bids were raised. Wright Hargraves was offered in volume and the price weakened to a new low for the last nine years at 3.70.

Montreal Stocks Easier.

MONTREAL, Que., July 4 (AP).—Small losses slightly outnumbered equally small gains in the stock exchange today. Volume was smaller. Brazilian maintained the rôle of leader it has held for a week and, after opening for a gain, slipped back to its overnight price. Algoma Steel was ahead among industrials appearing, but Dominion Bridge, Canadian Car preferred, and Gypsum were all fractionally lower.

Buda Company Employes Increase 113 Pct. in Year

Buda company of Harvey has increased the number of its employés 113 per cent since July 1, 1940, J. S. Dempesy, president, announced yesterday. The company, which makes railroad supplies, Diesel engines, and other machinery, has 1,750 employés.

Banks, Security Exchanges Open; Some Marts Closed

Banks, security markets, and the Chicago Board of Trade will be open as usual today, but in many lines of industry, the holiday that started late Thursday will continue. Most of the organized commodity exchanges, the Chicago live stock and poultry markets, and the Chicago Mercantile exchange will be closed.

ICKES' FUEL OIL CONSERVATION PLAN ASSAILED

Expert Asserts Larger Use Is Necessary.

The consumption of fuel oil should be expanded rather than curtailed as suggested by Harold L. Ickes, oil industry coördinator, accord to Kalman Steiner, an authority on oil heating. Steiner, a Chicagoan, believes a larger consumption of fuel oil probably would be particularly desirable in the middle west.

Belief that there may be a fuel oil shortage in the east which later may spread to other areas developed shortly after 50 tankers that had been supplying petroleum products to the Atlantic seaboard were transferred to Great Britain. Some authorities estimated that because of transportation difficulties supplies may fall 15 per cent short of needs. Replacement of fuel oil units with coal or gas burners was suggested.

Explains Need of Consumption.

In an article in the current issue of Heating, Piping and Air Conditioning, Steiner said any attempt to replace fuel oil in industry with coal would disrupt transportation facilities. Use of natural gas would not be feasible on a wide scale, he said.

Steiner estimated that coal production would have to be increased 40 per cent to replace present oil burning plants with coal burners. Complete substitution of coal for oil would increase rail freight traffic by 15 per cent, he said, and if the use of fuel oil were discontinued in New England alone railroads going into that section would have to more than double their coal traffic—railroads that now face the enormous problem of moving armament materials.

Can't Be Readily Stored.

"It must be remembered that fuel oil is essentially a by-product of gasoline manufacture," Steiner said. "Modern defense preparations must be thought of in terms of gasoline propelled machines: Airplanes, tanks, trucks. As our gasoline production is stepped up to meet these defense requirements, increasing quantities of fuel oil will become available.

"This fuel oil cannot readily be stored in quantities approaching actual production, but must be consumed at about the same rate as produced. It can be expected therefore that within a short time refineries will catch up with, and then exceed, the present fuel oil demand.

Steiner declared that the transportation problem of getting fuel oil to the east is not as serious as some contend. He cited the vast fleet of tankers available, together with new tankers under construction.

BUMPER GRAIN CROP OF NEARLY 5 BILLION BUSHELS PREDICTED

Bumper harvests of all grains this season are expected if weather conditions remain favorable, Chicago crop experts reported yesterday. The aggregate yield of wheat, corn, oats, rye, and barley was estimated at 4 billion 909 million mushels.

The crop reporters said a grain yield of this size would be 57 million bushels larger than was harvested in 1940. The 1929-38 average harvest was 4 billion 342 million bushels.

The corn crop is one to two weeks ahead of normal. Cutting of the new oats crop has started in some sections. Cutting of hay and the harvest of some small grains came about the same time that corn needed cultivation as a result of the excessive rains early in June.

Steady rains in the southwest have materially slowed the movement of wheat to terminal markets, Chicago dealers asserting that the crop has been reduced about 33 million bushels from the June 1 estimate of 698 million bushels.
